

IS LIMIT TO SHAVING POWER

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION AS TO RESTRICTIONS IN CUTTING APPROPRIATIONS.

NO LESS THAN HALF

MEANS MAXIMUM VETO OR ONE-HALF OF TOTAL.

WITNESS PAY STANDS SLICE

Few Items Cut Will Ever Come to Test—Governor's Ideas Are Not in Accord.

Austin, Aug. 21.—An opinion rendered and submitted to the governor this afternoon by the attorney general was to the effect that whenever items compose a section of an appropriation bill, that the items may be individually vetoed thereby vetoing the total of the section. Or furthermore, that the appropriation for either of the two years may be eliminated entirely, but that shaving the items for each year below or above an amount to make the total less or more than one-half of the total appropriation for the two years was not permissible. This is the reverse of the idea of the governor, on which he made recent cuts.

The effect of this ruling means either a maximum allowance, an absolute veto or one-half of the amount total of the appropriation for the two years. There is no chance for a cut of less than one-half of the appropriations.

On Tuesday night the governor submitted to the legislature under a ruling of the attorney general a veto amounting to $9,000 of various sections of the judiciary appropriation bill. These cuts reduced the appropriation for expenses of district judges and district attorneys expenses of attached witnesses in felony cases residing outside of the county and for fees and costs of sheriffs.

The item for the reduction of the witness fees hardly would ever come to a test. Cutting the salary allowance of district judges and expenses of sheriffs might get into the courts should the governor allow the cuts to stand. No witness would institute mandamus proceedings and furthermore the amount as cut might be sufficient to cover this item.

On the contrary, the result might be disastrous to any one attempting proceedings to secure the mandamus and the full appropriation. Authorities have held two ways on the matter of reduction of items in appropriation bills. It has been held that the reduction of a single item or a veto of a single item nullifies the entire item and that might be the decision of the court. Other authorities have held the reverse. That is, that the failure to veto the entire item is approval of the entire item.

The effect of the governor's veto of sections of the judiciary appropriation bill is problematical. Proceedings will hardly be instituted on any of these items inasmuch as they are so general. The practice of shaving an item of a bill directly concerning a single institution might be instrumental in a test case.

A rumor is current today that despite the fact that the university appropriation had been lumped together, that a cut would be made of the entire amount for one year. Other appropriations were all itemized when they reached the governor, the university appropriation alone going in a lump sum.

FRANK CASE ABOUT CLOSED.

Two of Four Arguments Heard—Will Be Two More.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 21.—Two of the four arguments in the case of Leo M. Frank, on trial here for the murder of Mary Phagan, the little factory girl, were completed today. Two more will be made tomorrow, at the close of which Judge Roan will deliver his charge and place the accused man's fate in the jury's hands.

Confirms Harrison's Appointment.

Washington, Aug. 21.—The senate late today confirmed the nomination of Francis Burton Harrison of New York as governor general of the Philippines. The Philippine committee earlier in the day reported the nomination favorably and it was confirmed without opposition.

Recommends Thomas Fox As Sacramento Postmaster

Washington, Aug. 21.—The senate postoffice committee late today recommended to the senate in executive session that the termination of Thomas Fox as postmaster at Sacramento, Cal., be confirmed.

Rudolph Spreckels had made a strenuous fight against Fox's confirmation, attacking him as a "boss" and tool of the Southern Pacific railroad. He will carry the fight to the floor of the senate.

A positive denial was made today by Immigration Commissioner Caminetti that he had recommended Thomas Fox as postmaster at Sacramento.

Tammany Boss, Charles F. Murphy, Who Caused New York Legislature to Impeach Gov. Sulzer

This is one of the latest photographs of Charles F. Murphy, Tammany boss, who has such a grip on New York state that he could cause its legislature to impeach Governor William Sulzer. Ten months ago Murphy caused a Democratic state convention to nominate him for governor. There was never a better photograph of Murphy than this.

Murphy's enemies have described him as a low, corrupt and stupid boss. His friends don't deny that he is a contractor in politics for his own pocket. But they point out that Murphy is not stupid.

"How could a stupid boss maintain himself in control of Tammany Hall for ten years?" they ask. "How could a stupid boss control four Democratic state conventions? Croker, who is sometimes held as a man of ability, managed to control one state convention and that only with the help of another boss, whom he permitted to name the candidate for governor."

Murphy has been the manager of a semi-professional baseball team, a street car conductor, a bartender, a saloon keeper, a ward politician, a contractor, a public official and is now boss without any ostensible business. District Attorney Jerome got him before the grand jury five years ago.

"What is your business?" asked the district attorney.

Speer Says Will Attend The Investigation of Alleged Misconduct

Washington, Aug. 21.—Federal Judge Emory F. Speer of Georgia, charged with official misconduct in papers filed with the house committee on judiciary, will attend any hearings that the committee may have to take evidence in the case.

He telegraphed today to Representative Hughes of Georgia, a lifelong friend and college classmate, asking that he arrange for his appearance at the proper time. Mr. Hughes immediately conferred with Chairman Clayton of the committee and later notified Judge Speer that he would be permitted to be present with counsel. A conference of the Georgia delegation in the house for consideration of the Speer case has been called for tomorrow.

EXPLOSIVES NEAR GAYNOR'S OFFICE

Enough Forty Per Cent Dynamite Discovered Under Mayor's Window to Blow Up New York City Hall—Fuse Burned.

New York, Aug. 21.—A deadly charge of dynamite—three whole ten-inch sticks and two halves with a fuse and detonator—was discovered this afternoon near Mayor Gaynor's office windows in the city hall. The Bureau of Combustibles found that the explosive was 40 per cent dynamite, the regulating blasting proportion, and the amount of the find would if it exploded have wrecked the city hall.

The mayor was in his office when the dynamite was discovered by a citizen passing through City Hall park. Mr. Gaynor evinced little interest and remained apparently undisturbed at his desk while police officers hurriedly drew a cordon about the dynamite to keep back an excited crowd.

Mr. Gaynor frequently receives threatening letters, but tonight he would make no statement regarding the possible connection between any threats and the dynamite of today. It is just three years ago this month that he was shot in the neck by a so-called crank and as badly wounded that for several days it was feared he would die.

The dynamite found today lay on a basement door in a concrete moat or area, within sixty feet of the mayor's window.

The explosive was arranged in a lattice formation with the two small pieces on top. A partly burned four-inch fuse made of gunpowder, tightly rolled in a paper cylinder, led to a detonating cap on one of the half sticks.

Close to the explosive was a piece of Chinese punk and several partly burned matches. The dynamite and fuse were wrapped in a piece of heavy cambric, secured by red and blue twine. The cloth was blue, with red and white figures, and resembled the felts worn by Italian women of the working class.

Experts of the Bureau of Combustibles state that the only thing which prevented a disastrous explosion was the presence of a strip of cotton wool wound so tightly about the base of the fuse that a spark could not reach the detonator. An edge of one dynamite stick was slightly scorched.

The investigators do not attach much importance to the finding of half burned matches and a partly consumed cigar near the explosive. Hundreds of smokers pass the area during the noon hour.

The police authorities say that laborers sometimes carelessly drop dynamite sticks near their blasting operations. There is an excavation shaft on the Broadway side of City Hall park leading to the new subway construction, but the contractors declare they don't use 40 per cent dynamite in their operations.

REPUBLICANS NOW RUSH THE TARIFF

MINORITY IN SENATE TIRES OF FRUITLESS OPPOSITION TO BILL.

FLAX AND SILK ARE APPROVED

Fight on Wool Schedule Is Left Until Today—House Ad Valorem Amended.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Republican senators gave evidence today of tiring over continued fruitless opposition to the tariff schedules, and rapid progress was made in consideration of the bill, the fight on free raw wool having been postponed until tomorrow.

The flax and silk schedules were approved as amended by the finance committee and democratic caucus. Senators McCumber and Gronna ineffectually sought to transfer flax from the free to the dutiable list.

To the silk schedule, which gave the finance committee much trouble, having been entirely rewritten with specific duties substituted for the house ad valorem rates in most instances, not an amendment was offered today nor a criticism made by a minority member. One paragraph, relating to woven fabrics in the piece, at 45 per cent ad valorem, was passed over at the request of Chairman Simmons for revision. The schedule was disposed of in fifteen minutes.

Consideration of the paper schedule was begun, but the paragraph relating to print paper and the proposed countervailing duty on paper valued at more than 2 1/2 cents per pound, was passed over at the request of Senator Lodge until tomorrow.

When the paper schedule is disposed of tomorrow, Senator Simmons will call up the wool schedule, expecting a vote on free raw wool before adjourning for the day.

The schedule was dismissed in general debate today, Senator Pitman of Nevada, a wool growing state, expressing his approval of free wool and averring it was for the best interests of the wool producers of his state. Substitutes for the wool schedule have been submitted by Senators Smoot and Penrose and a third substitute has been prepared by Senator La Follette.

Beside paper and wool, the sundries schedule and the free list remain to be considered. Then will come the income tax, the cotton futures tax and administrative features.

Pitman Endorses Bill.

Senator Pitman of Nevada addressed the senate, endorsing the tariff bill and its free wool provisions. He believed a majority of those in his state, a wool producer, approved the bill and was sure reasonable profits would come to wool growers who would be able to meet foreign competition.

An amendment by Senator Gronna to transfer hickory flax from the free list to the dutiable list at 3 cents a pound was rejected without a roll call. A proposed duty of 42 a ton on tow of flax was voted down.

Senator McCumber in a second amendment said he sought to "bridge the chasm of difference between the house and senate." This was to fix a duty of 40 a ton on tow of flax not used for purposes of weaving. It, too, was rejected.

Senate amendments transferring hemp and tow of hemp to the free list were agreed to, as was reducing the proposed duty on single-jute yarns from 25 to 20 per cent ad valorem. Senator Bradley of Kentucky has given notice that he will oppose the hemp proposals when the free list is reached.

Senator Gronna of North Dakota insisted that jute yarn should be free because it was used in binding twine. Senator Nelson of Minnesota said jute no longer was used in the manufacture of binding twine and should be discouraged for such use because it made inferior twine. The Minnesota senator described how the farmers of Minnesota curbed the harvesters' trust by using twine manufactured in the state penitentiary.

THAW NOW PLANS TO BE DEPORTED

WANTS TO ARRANGE TO GET INTO OTHER STATE THAN NEW YORK.

OFFICIALS SEEM TO BE WILLING

Canadian Officers, Anxious to Be Rid of Complex Matter, Take to Plan.

Sherbrooke, Quebec, Aug. 21.—Until Wednesday of next week, barring unforeseen developments, Harry Kendall Thaw will remain in the Sherbrooke jail. On that day he is to be arraigned in the superior court on a writ of habeas corpus. Between now and that time his battery of Canadian lawyers hope to perfect plans not to thwart deportation, but to subvert it to gracefully—to a point selected by Thaw.

This, in brief, was the status tonight of Matthew's fugitive arrested Tuesday near Coaticook, Quebec, and committed to jail here on a defective warrant.

Ignorant of the moves made by his lawyers, Thaw has spent his time pacing the length of the narrow corridor in the Sherbrooke jail and was not even aware that the writ of habeas corpus in his case, served on the jailer this afternoon and that but for a timely telephone message he would have been produced in court today with a bench warrant.

This incident, variously described as a blunder, a case of absentmindedness and an error due to hurry, arose after Superior Judge Gobeil failed to specify in writing that the writ was returnable to him next Wednesday.

He had set this date in chambers, but the writ reading "instantly" was served on the jailer, and he had called a carriage and ordered Thaw to dress for an outing when a telephone message from the judge informed him that the latter was leaving for Montreal, not to return here as a circuit judge until next week.

Now, District Attorney Conger of Quebec, Ontario, New York, Deputy Attorney General Franklin Kennedy of Albany and other prominently interested in getting Stanford White's slayer back across the border, seized on the possibility of Thaw's immediate production and sought to find another judge before whom to arraign him. But Mr. La Force, governor of the jail, declined to surrender the prisoner until he had consulted Sheriff Aylmer.

Better Stay in Jail.

The sheriff, after reading the writ carefully, said that while no time for his return was stated he had understood from the court that Wednesday was the day, and he "allowed" that Thaw had better stay in jail.

Rumors sprouted meanwhile that the New York authorities were trying to kidnap Thaw; that an automobile was ready to whirl him to the New York line; that an open clash, perhaps a street battle, was imminent. As a matter of fact, the officers from New York were as much surprised as anyone. They had decided to bide their time, hoping that when arraigned Thaw would be released as a fugitive and promptly snapped up by the immigration authorities as an undesirable.

Thaw's lawyers said tonight they were well satisfied with the events of today. They feel now that Thaw's fate so far as the Canadian authorities may interfere, is practically settled. The departure for Ottawa early this morning of W. L. Shurtliff, the first step in a plan to procure Thaw's removal from Canada without prolonged legal proceedings.

All of the lawyers profess to believe that the minister of the interior will accede to the request that Thaw be permitted to nominate his destination in return for submitting without further protest to deportation.

Those who are advising Thaw, among them some of the ablest criminal lawyers in Canada, said tonight they were confident that the government will welcome such a solution of the problem. No one contends that Thaw has violated a single law of the dominion, unless it be that law which provides that no alien may enter Canada without special permit within five years after he has been an inmate of an asylum for the insane.

In the event that such an alien has entered by railroad the law, it is understood, provides that he shall be transported to the capitol of the last state through which he passed prior to entering by any train. He came behind a wind-blown horse and when captured he was nearer Vermont than any other state of the union.

Arrange for Hearing.

Already, the immigration authorities have arranged to hold a hearing at Coaticook, the nearest point to the Vermont border, whenever Thaw may fall into their hands.

The plan of Thaw's lawyers—and there is reason to believe that they have had assurances of its success—is to have Thaw examined before that board and ordered deported to Montpelier, Vt. Thaw would prefer Vermont to any other state as a refuge.

The New York authorities, while exerting pressure at Ottawa to bring about Thaw's deportation to the New York border, possibly, or to have him transferred to Montreal as a prisoner of the immigration department, nevertheless, have anticipated the Vermont contingency and sent there today John E. Mack, former district attorney of Dutchess county, to arrange for possible hearings.

Details of Thaw's trip on the night before he was arrested near Coaticook were obtained today by immigration officials who went over the ground in search of witnesses to use against "Mitchell Thompson" under arrest on a charge of aiding and abetting Thaw, a lunatic, to enter Canada.

According to these officials Thaw left the train at Beecher's Falls, where he had supper with his two companions, one of whom was Thompson. After supper they hired a rig and drove to Coaticook, Vt. They then doubled back and crossed the frontier into West Texas—Fair Friday; cooler in north portion; Saturday, fair.

Senator Boies Penrose Backs Wilson's Policy

Senator Boies Penrose, Republican, yesterday introduced a resolution in the senate proposing an emergency appropriation of $25,000,000 to be spent by President Wilson in protection of foreign interests in Mexico and in maintaining border patrol. The object of the resolution is to show the world that Wilson has the undivided support of the United States in his Mexican policy.

MULHALL ON STAND

LOBBYIST FOR MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION RETURNS AS WITNESS IN PROBE.

Willis Questions About Make-up of Judiciary Committee of House in 1909 and 1910.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Martin M. Mulhall, late lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers, refreshed by a week's vacation, took the stand before the house lobby investigation committee late today. He repeated some of his testimony before the senate committee relative to efforts to control committees in congress which dealt with labor legislation.

Representative Willis of Ohio, questioned the witness sharply about his statement as to the make-up of the judiciary committee of the house in 1909-1910.

Mulhall swore that through the efforts of former Representative James E. Watson, two men were taken from that committee and two others, Representative Vreeland of New York and Representative Bannan of Ohio—given their places.

Mulhall swore that Mr. Willis, "that Bannan went on that committee in 1906 and that Mr. Vreeland never served on it while he was in congress."

Mulhall said he might have been mistaken about the names or the dates, but he was sure the National Association of Manufacturers could control the selection of men on the committee.

Interurban Service to Be Inaugurated By October 1

While the exact date for the running of the first car on the interurban between Waco and Dallas has not been fixed, it has been definitely determined that the line will be opened to the public between September 25 and October 1.

This is the statement of J. F. Strickland, president of the Southern Traction company, who spent a few hours in Waco Wednesday night after making an inspection trip over the route. Mr. Strickland and Luther Dean, chief engineer of the company, motored from Dallas to Waco, making the trip in about four hours.

"The work is getting on as fast as can be expected, but not as fast as we would like to have it," said Mr. Strickland. "However, we will be able to open the service to the public before October 1. The ballasting train and crews are working night and day, getting the line in the best of shape. The cars have been built and as far as the car company is concerned they are ready, but they are being held awaiting the arrival of electrical equipment. They will be here in time for the opening, however, so there is no delay on that score."

"Is the patronage of the East Side satisfactory?" he was asked.

"Very," he replied. "I want to say that the people of that section of the city have done their part. They are patronizing the line liberally, and we appreciate very much the manner in which they have accepted the new service."

"Have you thought of an extension to the Bell Meigs terminals of the Katy?" he was asked.

"Yes, we have thought of it, but we will not be in a position to talk of any extensions until the interurban line is in operation. I understand the situation to be that a lot of people living at the Katy terminals are without sufficient transportation facilities and they want a car line. It is a promising opening for business and for service and it is the duty of a car line to extend where there will be patronage. We cannot, however, discuss that matter until after we finish this big job at the Katy terminals and we are without that will connect Dallas and Waco. We are bending all our efforts to that end."

"Will you extend the interurban to Temple?" he was asked.

"I understand there are some people figuring now on the Temple line. If some one else does not occupy the field first we will consider it, but we do not meddle where there are others making honest efforts to serve the public. Our charter allows us to operate in that section of the state, but we are not disposed to interfere with the plans of others, although Temple was in our original plan."

way will show its confidence in the president when he reads his message. The administration hopes that when the facts are known in Mexico the Huerta authorities may be more inclined to respect the Americans' suggestions.

The United States, in brief, has proposed that Huerta resign in favor of a provisional president acceptable to all sides; that a suspension of hostilities be brought about and a constitutional election held, the resulting administration to receive the recognition of the American government.

Huerta Rejects Proposals.
Thus far Huerta has flatly rejected the American proposals and renewed his demand for recognition, declaring his financial troubles are due to the failure of the United States to recognize him official advice to the state department, however, describe the provisional president's plight financially as desperate, and officials here believe he has not sufficient money to pay his troops and cannot get money abroad.

These considerations and the incessant warfare of the constitutionalists, likewise lead American officials to the conclusion that even though Huerta may continue to scorn the suggestions of the United States, the situation in Mexico soon will disentangle itself and that a policy of non-interference should be maintained for the present at least.

It is not known yet whether President Wilson will make any specific recommendations in his message, but it was learned from a high government official that the president of the case will be the foundation for the next step on the part of the United States. The president has made it plain, however, that he has no thought of armed intervention and that he is as determined as ever to maintain an attitude of peace and friendliness toward Mexico.

Mr. Lind will probably remain in Mexico indefinitely and his reports indicate that he has not abandoned hope. President Wilson told callers during the day that the envoy was in the least disturbed by the situation and that he had handled it with admirable tact and discretion.

The president is undecided yet whether he will make extended comment in his message or allow his refusal of the facts as disclosed in the exchange of notes between Lind and Huerta to serve as a reiteration of his views.

He will work on the message all day tomorrow, denying himself to callers in order to complete the task as quickly as possible. It is possible that he will talk the communication over with members of the congressional foreign relations committee when it is finished.

Penrose's Resolution.
Senator Penrose introduced today a resolution requiring President Wilson to take the necessary steps to place United States troops in Mexico to protect American lives and property, such a step to be declared by the senate as a step in no way an unfriendly act toward Mexico.

Senator Penrose introduced also an amendment to the deficiency bill for an appropriation of $25,000,000 to be expended as to the president might direct ing all to uphold the hands of President Wilson.

"I think the Mexican people should know," said Senator Kern, "that in a threatening situation like this the American people stand together like a stone wall."

Demands Safety for Americans.
Washington, Aug. 21.—Senator Penrose tonight addressed a letter to Secretary Bryan, demanding that he immediately telegraph Provisional President Huerta and General Carranza, the constitutional leader, warning them that the American government will hold them personally responsible for any harm inflicted upon Americans at Chihuahua who have been threatened by revolutionists.

Earlier in the day Secretary Bryan had sent to Senator Penrose a consular report stating that the intention of executing the engineer of the plant without trial if he again impounded water in the power company's dam. Tonight the secretary said he had not received Senator Penrose's letter, but that telegrams as strong as the senator could wish already had been sent by this department.

Republican leaders have obtained promises from congressional party leaders to speak for the Republican candidate.

TRAINMEN TO WATCH "HOBBLIES"

Pennsylvania Railroad Issues Order Regarding Women's Dress.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 21.—Following yesterday's public statement to the effect that many accidents to women on cars steps are the direct result of high heels and hobble skirts, the Pennsylvania railroad posted today on every trainmen's bulletin board along the main line an order that the dress of the women shall be specially noted and reported whenever such an accident occurs.

The order directs that trainmen at all times, as in the past, shall lend passengers assistance, and that whenever a woman falls on or near a train, the trainmen shall be held responsible for the width of skirt and height of heel. The trainmen are not to be equipped with measuring tapes or rules, but they are to make a calculation.

SMALL SALARIES FOR WOMEN.

Less Than $6 Per Week for 25 Per Cent in Kansas.

Kansas City, Aug. 21.—Twenty-five per cent of 25,115 women workers of Kansas City receive less than $6 a week, the wage needed for "bare existence," according to a report of the board of public welfare, made public today. The report is based on two years' investigation.

Seventeen per cent of the workers are married women, 14 per cent are single, divorced or widows; 69 per cent are unmarried.

A wage of $5.50 a week is necessary for a girl living in boarding and lodging houses in order to live comfortably, while $6 a week means a bare existence, according to the report.

STOVER'S BOYS IN FORCE TODAY.

Youthful Guard 300 Strong to Patrol Central Park.

New York, Aug. 21.—Park Commissioner Stover will keep Central park closed to the public today, as his force of boy policemen. There are 250 of them, and all are to be on duty for the first time.

Their work will be to look out for persons who throw refuse on the lawns. The boy policemen are out for a record, and park department officers are very likely to get summonses to appear in court. The boys have police whistles to use when they need a full size blue coat.

Levy Not Renominated.

New York, Aug. 21.—Aaron Levy, majority leader in the assembly, who has such prospects for the impeachment of Governor Sulzer, was not renominated as a candidate for the assembly to-night by the designating committee in his district, the Fourth, on the east side. The committee named Henry R. Schimmer, a lawyer, for the place.

According to friends, Mr. Levy did not desire a renomination, and it was intimated he might seek higher honors. He has been a member of the assembly five years.

Temple Building Addition.

200 PRINTED WORDS

All Texas is Reading Them—They Are Worth While and Are About Vitalitas.

SON OF ANTHONY CAMINETTI, LEADER IN CALIFORNIA POLITICS, TO BE TRIED.

On a Charge of Violation of the Mann Act—Is Set for Next Tuesday.

San Francisco, Aug. 21.—With Maury I. Diggs convicted and awaiting sentence for having violated the Mann white slave act in eloping with Marsha Warrington from Sacramento, Cal., to Reno, Nevada, for immoral purposes, the government turned its attention today to Diggs' companion in flight, J. Drew Caminetti, indicted for having taken Lola Norris on the same excursion to Reno. Diggs was released at midnight on $20,000 bail furnished by his father, I. P. Diggs, and uncle, Marshall Diggs. Five years for each of the four counts of which he was convicted is the maximum penalty.

Although Diggs was regarded as the leader in the interstate jaunt, the trial of Caminetti will command exceptional attention owing to the fact that he is the son of Anthony Caminetti, a leader in state and national politics and the present commissioner of immigration.

When United States Attorney John L. McNaught (resigned) brought the Diggs-Caminetti cases into national prominence by accusing the attorney general's office of having delayed the trial for political reasons, Commissioner Caminetti figured in the explanation of the delay. His chief, Secretary of Labor Wilson, stated he had asked postponement until Commissioner of Labor Wilson, who was eager to return to San Francisco from Washington, could familiarize himself with his duties. Friends of Caminetti today were depressed over Diggs' conviction, and by the attitude of the court toward that defendant. Judge Van Fleet, who will also try Caminetti, said in his charge to the Diggs jury:

"If you find that the defendant and his companion, Caminetti, were actuated by a fear of exposure of arrest, but that nevertheless in taking these two girls along there existed the intention to subject them to the immoral purposes charged, then the defendant is guilty."

When Caminetti's case was called today Judge Van Fleet set it over for trial until next Tuesday, August 26.

Famous Lawyer of Chicago Is Dead

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Alexander Sullivan, a Chicago lawyer, who was at the head of the Clan-Na-Gael at the time of the murder of Dr. Cronin, a case which attracted worldwide attention, died here today, aged 66 years.

The body will be taken to Detroit tomorrow to be laid beside that of his wife, Mrs. Sullivan.

In 1876 Sullivan was defendant in a sensational trial, accused of the murder of Francis Hanford, a school principal. Sullivan shot Hanford on the porch of the latter's home. In his defense he swore that Hanford had insulted Mrs. Sullivan and he was acquitted.

As chief of Clan-Na-Gael, in the United States, a persistent attempt was made to involve him in the Cronin murder. He never was indicted, but his name became known wherever the story of that famous crime was told.

Mr. Sullivan was a strong advocate of home rule for Ireland and was counted as the intimate friend of Parnell, Davitt, Gladstone and Redmond.

He stumped the country for Jas. G. Blaine for president and narrowly missed being the Republican candidate for vice president with Benjamin Harrison.

ROBBERIES AT MART.

Five Stores Are Entered—Cash Taken From Registers.

Mart, Aug. 21.—Five stores were entered and the cash drawers robbed by unknown parties last night between midnight and dawn. Among the stores entered were Vaughan & Gibson, H. W. Tatum, The Groceries company and a meat market. The thieves took nothing but cash found in cash registers and cash drawers, securing in all less than a hundred dollars.

Marshal Huddleston will make no statement other than that he has two good clues and hopes to capture the thieves.

Strike Near End.

Farmington, Mo., Aug. 21.—Settlement of the strike of 500 St. Francis county lead miners was no nearer to-night than when the state board of mediation and arbitration ended its session.

The miners lowered their demands to a 40-cent a day wage increase, but insisted on recognition of their organization.

The operators showed no disposition to sign agreements for closed shops, but said they would take back all the striking miners with a 20-cent raise.

The board adjourned until tomorrow.

Worldwide Convention Will Be Held in Waco

Baracas and Philatheas From Over the World Will Meet Here—Will Advertise the Town—Convention Will Bring Thousands.

That Waco was selected as the meeting place for the worldwide Baraca-Philatheas convention in 1914 was the information received yesterday by J. Bates McKinney, who is in charge of the local campaign to secure the convention. A special delegation was sent to Nashville in June to invite the convention to this city and work has been consistently pushed to secure the vote of the central committee. The telegram conveying the information was sent by Marshall A. Hudson of Syracuse, N. Y., who is the worldwide president of the movement. Macon, Ga., and Birmingham, Ala., were both contestants for the big assembly, but so sure were the local promoters of securing the gathering that partial arrangements have already been made. The Young Men's Business League has pledged $1,500 to expenses in handling the delegates. The city of Waco has promised about $2,500 more and the manager, Mr. McKinney, says that another thousand will give a sufficient amount to adequately take care of the convention. The plans being formulated by Mr. McKinney and his assistants are more elaborate than on a greater scale than any previous convention. It is expected that the city will reap the benefit of extensive advertising through the cosmopolitan nature of the representation.

Further word has been received from President Hudson that Frank Anderson, the general field secretary, will probably be in Texas in a short time. His coming will begin the organization of five hundred new classes in the state. Mr. McKinney is also in receipt of a letter stating that a big shipment of literature has been sent from Syracuse for use in the campaign.

The city union of Baraca and Philatheas clubs will meet September 3 and additional committees to handle the details will be announced.

BAPTIST WOMEN OF WACO CELEBRATE

Women Members of All the Baptist Churches in the City Take Part in Big Jubilate—Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of Organization of Women

The Baptist women of all the churches of Waco met at the First Baptist church yesterday in a jubilate celebration of the twenty-first anniversary of the organization of women's work in Waco. Similar celebrations are being held this year by all the Baptist women of the south.

"The Discovery of Woman and the Call of the Kingdom" was the subject of the main address of the celebration, made by Rev. J. M. Dawson, pastor of the First Baptist church of Temple, at the session last night. Rev. Mr. Dawson showed the unprecedented freedom of women in the past century along political, economical, educational and religious lines.

"There was a time," said the speaker, "when a woman either had to marry to gain a living or else work for her livelihood as a mannish old maid. He added that America has not been the only nation that has widened woman's sphere, but that Turkey, Africa, China, Japan and other countries have 'discovered' woman."

Present at the meeting yesterday was Mrs. D. M. Dotson of this city, who was present at the initial organization of the Baptist women at Richmond, Va., in 1843. Since that time she has been in close touch with the rapid development in the sphere of women's religious activities and she gave a brief resume of the history of the Baptist women's missionary union.

Rev. O. E. Bryan, pastor of the Clay Street Baptist church, made the Scripture for the evening service and Miss Juanita Smith of Baylor University sang a solo preceding the evening address.

Morning Session.
The sessions were under the general supervision of the president of the city organization, Miss Pyrena Allen, 1423 Vermont street. Mrs. J. M. Byars opened the celebration with a jubilate devotional service.

Mrs. J. W. Harrell gave a synopsis of a book entitled "In the King's Service," written by the president of the Baptist Women's Missionary Union, and made a talk along the line of young women's missionary efforts in colleges with special reference to the organization of a Y. W. A. in Baylor university.

WRECK ON ILLINOIS CENTRAL

Northbound Passenger Train Is Derailed in Mississippi—Four Are Injured.

New Orleans, Aug. 21.—North-bound Illinois Central passenger train No. 4 was derailed when running forty miles an hour through Bogus Chitto, Miss., shortly before noon today and four persons were seriously hurt. Quick thinking by Engineer F. Fordish doubtless saved many lives.

The injured are:
Ira Watson, a jeweler of Brandon, Miss.

T. Cunningham of McComb, Miss. Two negroes.
The engine tender jumped the track at a switch. Fordish almost instantly put on the emergency brakes, but even then the baggage and combination cars rolled down a 15-foot embankment and the next three cars landed across the track. Three sleeping cars remained on the rails. Had not the brakes been applied so quickly it is believed the entire train would have rolled down the embankment.

SOMERVILLE-TEMPLE TRAIN.

Service Will Be Inaugurated on 25th of August.

Temple, Aug. 21.—The Temple chamber of commerce is arranging to celebrate the establishment of new passenger train service between Somerville and this city with a low rate dollar excursion on August 25th, when the new train will be put in service for the first time. The train will leave Somerville daily except Sunday at 6:15 a. m., arriving at Temple at 10 a. m.; returning, leaves Temple at 5 p. m. and arrives Somerville at 8:45 p. m. The management of the Santa Fe has requested the chamber of commerce to suggest a suitable name for the new train, and this matter will be promptly attended to.

COLUMBUS LADIES AID TO HAVE GOOD PROGRAM

With Mrs. Ollie Buchanan in charge the members of the Columbus Baptist Ladies Aid will have an unusually interesting session this afternoon. The hour is 4:30. The Aid invariably devotes the fourth Friday of each month to missionary discussion, and the program arranged by Mrs. Buchanan will bear upon this subject.

A WEEK END HOUSE PARTY WITH MISS JANE MOORE

For the next few days the John Moore household on South Fifth will be quite gay. Miss Jane Moore and her sister, Mrs. J. W. Bondurant, of Fort, are hostesses to the Mesdames Ernest Cortines and Frank Tennant of Dallas; also Mr. Jenifer of Dallas, Miss Leona Walshaw of San Antonio, has arrived, also Mrs. Loraine Rogers from Temple. In addition, friends in the city will be entertained. In all, quite a jolly week end spent.

THE MINIER-KELLY PARTY TO BE AT HOME SOON.

Mr. H. M. Minier writes from Denver to express the pleasure which he and his party have received from reading the Morning News every day in Denver; also, the party has sent to Waco for Cotton Palace pennants which they will fly during the four days' automobile trip home. It is recalled that the Miniers and the J. C. Kelleys were among the first of our summer departures. They went overland and have used their cars for scenic trips through the Rockies. The home trip will be made during the first week in September.

MISS MILDRED LASTINGER FOR MISS LOUISE HOWARD

As one of the special pleasures for her guest, Miss Louise Howard of Mart, Miss Mildred Lastinger formed an early breakfast party for Cameron park Thursday. The party met and went out together in several automobiles, with Mrs. Lastinger the chaperone. Dismounted, a fire was built and coffee was soon steaming. In the meantime bits of breakfast bacon were spiced and the table set. It was quite jolly and a delightful manner of enjoying the cool of the morn. Those in the party were the Mesdames Lastinger, Howard, Bess Herriek, Flora Lee McCullough, Leona Wynne of Dallas, Nannie Halbert, Pansy Clinton and Lucile Ellsworth, with Messrs. Scott Hill, Henry Kendrick, Richard Spencer, Ben Klepper, Tom Crawford, John Lastinger and Roy Eastland.

MRS. EMMA WOMBLE WELCOMED TO NEW NEIGHBORHOOD

Just removed into the neighborhood of a former neighbor and warm friends, Mrs. Emma Womble was the honored guest of a charming little gathering on Wednesday afternoon. The hostess was Mrs. Thomas Luckett of Seventeenth and Morrow. The rooms were given a beauty touch in cut flowers while the music of the violoncello gave an enlivening impetus. Mrs. Luckett was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Chester Fields. Her guests were those who shall hereafter be neighbors to Mrs. Womble. The afternoon was passed in introductions and animated talk, interrupted only by the refreshment service. Those privileged to meet their new neighbor under such agreeable conditions were Misses McGhee, Struce and Tubb, with the Mesdames Stearns, E. R. Nash, H. B. Minner, Carlton, Davis, Struce, George McGhee, W. M. Arnold, Clarence Hubbs, Vesta Thomas, J. W. Holaway, W. C. Torbett, S. H. Clayton, S. C. Glaze, Donohue, W. P. Lyles, H. A. Smith and Fred Peck.

MISS MARGARET JORDAN HAS PLAYGROUND PARTY

Few little ladies in this city can boast such a beautiful home playground as does little Margaret Jordan. Pergolas, vines for shady dainty nooks, tents for the shady games, and everything else pretty makes this yard. Margaret is a young lady grown up to all of four years, and she has begun the custom of having her little friends, both boys and girls, with her on her birthday. "Daddy" plans for her and then the two tell "Mamma" what shall be done. But it is borne in mind all the while that it is "Daddy's and my party." The all-important event for this year is now over, and more than thirty babies are talking about the great play time they had. Margaret had back next morning to see if any of the party was left. The tiny hostess met her guests and then, with the Mesdames Amanda Dally and Camille Sealey to suggest, romped around the lawn. Near by in the tent was a well where Baby Billy Sealey was in charge, assisted by his mother, Mrs. Chapin Sealey. On hand were cards, were as many numbers as there were guests. Two of these were prize numbers. Each little one drew, and then Billy drew one of the trinkets with corresponding number. The prizes were on the cards of Dorothy Bell and John Gray Kendall, their special souvenirs being a doll and a wagon with team. Mrs. W. L. Gees appeared with the birthday cake, always so exciting. Here the ring was found by Dorothy Rylander, the dime by John Gray Kendall. Punch all through the play, with cream cones and the cake, made the sweet part of this happy gathering. At least twenty-five mothers remained to enjoy the scene. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan were everywhere, that could add pleasure to one of the little ones. Those who had this wonderful afternoon with little Margaret are: Misses and Masters Bert Hunter, Alice Baker, Laura Bassett Boynton, James Boynton, Herman Houk of Corpus Christi, Dorothy Crawley, Pearl Fielder Millam, Martha Lanham, Sam Lanham, Elizabeth Burrows, Jane Dodd Moore, Caroline Pryor, Frances Abernathy, Ruth Sealey, Nell Colgin, Wilma Damon, Pauline Barrett, Sallie C. Geer, Alma Geer, Harlan Cross, Mary Cross, Jack Davis, Edith Sealey, Bill Sealey, Robert Nettles, Madge Nettles, John Gray Kendall, Dorothy Bell, Dorothy Rylander.

SOME LITERARY HAUNTS VISITED BY WACOANS

Cards arrived in the Thursday mail to tell that Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ross with Mrs. J. W. Mann were at Ocean Side in the historic home of Ramona. This has been restored by the great sugar king, Spreckles, and is now a point for tourists' visits. The Ross party made the trip in automobile. The Colorado tourists are all pilgrims to the grave of Helen Hunt Jackson, the author of Ramona, and other Indian stories, in addition to her verses which breathe the spirit of the Indian and the Mexican and the West. The mission which figures in the story of Ramona is visited en route to the home. Miss Ross reports every moment one of delight to her party.

Thomas Bailey Aldrich. In the same mail came a collection of cards from the Thomas Bailey Aldrich memorial house at Portsmouth, New Hampshire. These were sent through the thoughtfulness of Mrs. Edward Rotan, who had just made the visit by motor. This memorial is the home where Aldrich spent the most of his childhood. It is bought by the city and many interesting relics have been collected in the rear rooms. A portrait of the writer, his pieces of silver, books, manuscripts of his writing, are all here. The collection of cards shows the house itself with its old-fashioned garden appropriate to the age of the building. The parlor is just as the family used it, with walls filled with the old family portraits, the brass andirons holding their old hickory logs and the chairs drawn stiffly to the sides of the room. The dining room, the bedroom with its bed draperies and chintz covered chairs, and the kitchen, all are shown by card picture. The crane in the wide open fireplace with its hanging kettle, is quite suggestive of old New England, who clings to old sights. This is quite interesting, and the coincidence of the Ramona house from the Pacific shore together with the Aldrich, from the Atlantic, tells us forcefully that our country, although new, is beginning to preserve for the generations to come our literary heritage.

The Uncle Remus Home. None of our Wacoans have so far reported from Georgia, but when they do, the most interesting of all the literary shrines will be visited. This is the memorial house and grounds of Joel Chandler Harris, our own "Uncle Remus."

Never have little folks taken more kindly to a story than they have for two generations. The wonderful experiences of "Brer Rabbit," the writer of the fascinating tales is not so well known. Parents should see that he is, for "Uncle Remus" has now gone into literature as one of the most unique and entertaining the South has ever produced.

Georgia Honors Harris.

In the recent edition of the Atlanta Constitution by women a page is devoted to what will be done as a memorial to Joel Chandler Harris, the author of the Uncle Remus stories. This will show that the nation at large is contributing money and relics for the home of Harris, which is to be a perpetual museum to his memory. The house itself is called the "Wren's Nest," and the farm around "Snap Bean Farm." Every May there will be a festival at Snap Bean Farm. There is a May queen and a coronation ceremony. All the school children of the country take part, students, colleges and the public schools. The refreshments are delicious. The house is a bower where Brer Rabbit is the presiding deity. There are wonderful rabbits and birds and fishes, all the animals from the Uncle Remus stories, dispensed in doughnuts for the refreshments. There is a "thimble finger" for lemonade, ice cream, under the umbrella china tree. The Uncle Remus house was opened as a museum for the first time this spring. A moving picture of the Uncle Remus stories will hereafter be one feature of the festival.

Something of the House.

The "Wren's Nest" is already interesting. Mrs. Harris has left her husband's bedroom without a change since he passed from it. The cottage is vine-clad and often in its doorway Joel Chandler Harris stood and said to his wife, "When I am gone let there be no costly monument built over me to stand out in dust and rain, but let this tree by my doorstep be my monument." Following this wish has come the Uncle Remus Memorial association, formed for the purpose of buying Snap Bean farm, and of perpetuating the Wren's Nest as a memorial. Women only are the members. What is it not entrusted to the women of the present day? In addition to the bedroom, the living room and the library are just as Uncle Remus left it. His typewriter stands on the same table just as his fingers last wrote the keys; his razor strip with the tissue paper beside it, is in the bedroom; his umbrella hangs at the end of the mantel. All is just as the man saw and loved his home. His book case remains, and to it will be added other volumes for a circulating library. More than five hundred volumes, with the necessary furniture, is already donated. Snap Bean farm will be made a children's recreation. Who loved the children better than Uncle Remus? Or who added more to the pleasure of their recreation hours?

Famous Men Contribute. President Wilson has contributed an autograph copy of his Life of Washington; President Taft sent his autograph, ex-President Roosevelt had a portrait of himself and family taken especially for the Wren's Nest. A well known New York has made a donation of Uncle Remus; Governor Hughes of New York, has sent his portrait. This begins a list of governors, and it is hoped to have something from the head of every state in the union. Jack London sent a souvenir from his trip around the world. Rudyard Kipling is a contributor, so is Richard Harding Davis, and Mark Twain gave as one of his last acts. Many other well known persons are represented. President Roosevelt gave the proceeds of a lecture, five thousand dollars, to the fund for buying the farm, and this amount was duplicated by Andrew Carnegie. Thus we see that men and nations have done honor to the original literary genius of the South.

TEACHERS' BIBLE STUDY AT AUSTIN AVENUE CHURCH

This afternoon at 4 o'clock the Teachers' Bible study class will meet at the Austin Avenue Methodist church. At 5 o'clock at the same place the orphanage playground promoters will have their weekly meeting.

Society Notes.

Mrs. Joseph Shelton will, with early autumn, join Dr. Shelton in the new home which will be Corpus Christi.

The coming week will find Miss Honor Wolfe the guest of Mrs. H. B. Mistrot, Nineteenth and Morrow.

With Thursday Mrs. William Edmond became matron of her new home on North Sixteenth.

Mrs. Richard Munroe of Provident Heights, is succumbed to a case of nervous prostration. She has been housed for three weeks.

The upturning of Columbus street is considered the cause of cases of typhoid with both Mrs. Z. F. Beasley and Mrs. B. L. Hutcherson. They are both ill but not seriously so.

A West Texas wedding announcement is daily expected here. This when it arrives, will create widespread interest.

Has it come to this, that before introduced, a young man inquires if a girl can turkey trot?

How cool it does seem to be able to write the august date with a hyphen! It almost makes the rumble of the first season north.

How many noted that if a case of cruel treatment was noticed, the same should be at once telephoned to City Marshal Barron at the city hall? He will give instructions as to how to proceed or will send a policeman at once.

We should not be discouraged if our window boxes and general yards are not satisfactory. This seems to be the case all over the city. Watch the falling of the leaves much earlier than usual this year. This is evidence that vitality in foliage and flower has not been strong.

Those who have notices for the women's department of the Morning News are reminded that the same should be telephoned before 2 o'clock in the afternoon, to insure appearance the next morning.

To remove the white spots on furniture rub with spirits of camphor. Which is the largest room in the world? Room for improvement.

Mothers, think of the awful accidents which have occurred right here in Waco, to say nothing of those all over the country, and then do not allow your small boy to drive your automobile without the presence of some grown-up.

Miss Laura Johns of Austin, the recent visitor to Misses Maycee Caudle and Anna Fisher, will spend the coming winter with her aunt, Mrs. Albert Burleson, in Washington City.

This will introduce Miss Johns into the cabinet social life.

Miss Rowena Barnett of Provident Heights, who is now visiting her aunt, Mrs. Boland, in Dallas, will re-enter the State university for her senior year with the September opening.

Everybody is hoping the women on Columbus street will form their society for uniform treatment of their parking. If the few old fogies rebel, pass them by, and make their spot a stigma upon their public spirit. There are always some who pull back and some who croak against city making. But this ought not to discourage the many who are public spirited. From what has been said in a general way, the outlook is for the large majority to join in making a beautiful park street of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. McCullum of Rose Park place, are leaving within a very few days for a three weeks' absence which will take them to Tennessee and include in their travel the birthplace of Mrs. McCullum in North Carolina. In the meantime Mr. and Mrs. Buford McWhirter remain at Ingleside, where C. B. McCullum joins them for his vacation.

Which Waco woman was it who bought a new hat and paid a regular Easter bonnet price for it? And then came car riding with the hat insensured.

IS INJURED IN TEMPLE FIRE

Will Schmele Attempts to Escape From Burning Building and Is Probably Fatally Hurt.

Temple, Aug. 21.—Fire discovered at 6 o'clock this morning in the two-story building occupied as a saloon by Geo. T. Koch and a restaurant by George Linton on the first floor, and a rooming house on the second floor, at First street and Avenue E, caused a panic among the lodgers in the latter and one of them, Will Schmele, a farmer living near Troy, received injuries from burns and the inhalation of smoke that will probably prove fatal.

All escaped through windows opening onto the street, and by using the awning made their way safely to the ground, except the injured man, who awakened by the dense smoke and sea of flames, attempted to escape through the door of his room entering the hall, having lost all sense of direction in the confusion.

By the time rescuers reached him he was in a pitiable condition and nearly dead from strangulation. He was rushed to a hospital at once where attention was given him, but no hopes are held out for his recovery. The fire is presumed to have started from a defective flue, but this is not certain. It was confined almost entirely to the second floor and inflicted damage to the amount of about $3,000 on building and contents. The loss to the building is estimated at $1,500, insured; Koch's saloon $250, insured; American Cafe $750, no insurance, and rooming house $500 on furniture and fixtures, uninsured.

EVELYN THAW, WHO IS TURKEY TROTTING FOR FAME AND FORTUNE, AND HER SON

Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, wife of Harry Thaw, has returned to the United States after a long stay in England, where she made quite a hit on the stage. Evelyn announces that she is through with the Thaw family and would now prefer to be called Miss Nesbit. "Yes, I am on the stage now for good," she said. "Jack Clifford and I will do a sort of acrobatic turkey trot and tango waltz. It is a curious thing, but I had no intention of going on the stage at all until a lot of managers got hold of me and offered me contracts. Even then I withheld my consent to appear in this country until I was sure that I could make good on my merit alone." Mrs. Thaw's little baby boy is now in Folkestone. "If I make a success here I shall send for him," concluded Mrs. Thaw. The little chap will be three in October.

AN INVESTIGATION WASTED?

That the late called session passed bills on the bulk of subjects submitted by the governor is not to be reckoned legislative achievement—not a session "good record." One need consider only the important heads on which no acts were sent to the executive in response to his proposals, comparing these with the mass of local and incidental measures rushed through in the last week or so, to subscribe to the justness of this view. Because there might be no liquor traffic legislation in the dying days of the session if proper attention were given the weighty important matter of bonded warehouses, the demand of the farmers for warehouses went, via the majority, to that gullotine of many worthy plans—the factional caucus and was decapitated on the floor. No need to analyze or even discuss cursorily the batch of bills vouchsafed fair treatment and passage; the slender list in these columns Thursday tells its own story and would tell quite the whole story even had not this performance or that, in connection with these measures, been commented on in the past month.

It must generally be concluded that the most unhappy omission of the session, occasioned by factional animosity to the executive, all his works and all his men, was the manner of dealing with the vexed problem of the prison system—with especial emphasis on that exhibition of consummate littleness, the rejection of the governor's nominees for the prison board. It is sadly to judge that the investigation of conditions and the voluminous, commendatory report resulting, of the system's financial depression and management, ordered by the regular session, may almost have been wasted. Certainly neither house gave the situation anything near the adequate, informed treatment in the way of bills it could have given. Makeshift, hodge-podge attempts were not lacking; something in degree better resulted. But this subject was one of the items in the call: Figures, narrative and recommendations of their own committee were before the legislature. The condition of the system was household conversation and daily newspaper text.

What did the rejection of the Messrs. Cabell, Tittle and Brahan avail, even if it were honestly considered they do not belong in charge of these big affairs, except, possibly, to give a deeper hue to the already black eye of the State penitentiary system's credit and militate further against the chances of financial and disciplinary and industrial improvement? Little note is to be given the executive's admission of error in abolishing the lease system and his offer to bear the burden of the blame for financial stringency rather than see his re-appointed commissioners shoved aside as having been unprofitable servants of the State. It is enough to consider solely the "innards" of the situation. The governor may proceed to appoint a board of commissioners—a recess or vacation appointment. If he shall follow the example of Col. Roosevelt, as president, in the matter of the senate's rejection of appointment of that Southern dusky office holder, he will appoint the same three commissioners, willy nilly. Not that we are inclined to believe he may do this thing. But the board he may appoint might be as objectionable to the senators as the trio it voted out. The rejection merely strips the system of its governance for a season—until Mr. Colquitt is ready to supply the vacancies under even the new law. Could the legislature know more fit men would be given these places?

It is a very perilous mire in which the prison system founders. The legislature had every opportunity, all advice, to provide a complete remedy. And the reply to criticism of this sort by those of its personnel who put really proper treatment of these conditions out of the question by factional, puerile contriving against the governor and his desires doubtless will be, as usual, to hold up the record of the session and show they passed a big collection of local bills and a smaller lot of measures generally uncontroversial.

FIVE MILLIONS FOR HUMANITY.

The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, summarizing its legislative campaign for the current year, announces that out of forty-one State legislatures in session during the season laws dealing with tuberculosis were enacted in thirty States and in thirty-four States consideration was given to bills dealing with the prevention of this disease.

Appropriations to the amount of over $5,000,000 have been set aside for the treatment and prevention of tuberculosis by the various State legislatures in session this year. Most of this money is for the maintenance of State sanatoria. There are at the present time thirty-nine such institutions in thirty-one different states. Connecticut, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, each having more than one sanatorium, Delaware is the only State which has made provisions for a State sanatorium for tuberculous negroes. In addition to the amounts appropriated by the various State governments, congress will be obliged to set aside nearly $1,000,000 for the maintenance of the United States public health, the army and the navy sanatoria, and the tuberculosis hospital of the District of Columbia.

Among the notable advances in the legislative enactments of this year, are the tuberculosis registration law of Colorado; laws providing for subsidies to local hospitals in Minnesota and Wisconsin, an act providing for the establishment of State bureau for the prevention of tuberculosis in Ohio and California. A complete analysis of the tuberculosis legislation considered and enacted in 1912, is being prepared by the National association.

NATIONAL DEFENSE NEEDS.

Representative Julius Kahn, of California, is quoted by Mobile Item to the effect that improvement of the rivers and harbors of the country is an important factor in the national defense. Mr. Kahn is the ranking minority member of the committee on military affairs and has given much attention to the problems of army organization. He is also deeply interested in the improvement of the ports, believing that the future greatness of America depends upon utilizing natural resources to the best advantage and making them serve the nation in a practical way. He says:

"I am in favor of the best system of river and harbor improvements we can devise. Naturally I am much interested in an efficient army and a strong navy, and I realize the necessity for making use of our rivers and harbors not only for commerce but as a means of defense. We never know when it may be necessary to have troops afloat. In time of war we would not dare send troops to sea without a naval convoy. If that convoy should be attacked by superior numbers anywhere near our coasts the troop ships must seek shelter in the nearest port. With them should go the convoy, consequently the harbors on our coast should be made accessible to our deep draft battleships. Good harbors will thus become an aid to the national defense as well as a benefit to commerce.

Kr. Kahn does not believe there can be anything sectional in advocating a liberal policy for the rivers and harbors, or the improvement of any other national project, for the reason that all sections must be benefited by everything that is for the common good.

"The Panama canal is the greatest waterway improvement ever undertaken in the world," says the California congressman, "but its supporters were not confined to the Pacific coast or the Atlantic coast. The Mississippi valley, whose ships we hope to see in the near future passing through the Golden Gate; the people of the iron and coal regions contiguous to the Ohio river; people of the great Western prairies, and those within the shadow of the magnificent Rocky Mountains, all are interested in and helped to make the Panama canal possible. Some are actuated by the moving spirit of the human race—the increase in worldly acquisitions which the canal would bring—but above and beyond all else that caused the construction of the Panama canal is the lofty patriotism of a people proud of their nation and determined to preserve it for their posterity.

"We dredge our rivers; we build our harbors; we improve our navigation for that which makes the pulses of the world throb in business activity—for the returns in dollars and cents which surely follow. But we built the Panama canal and control it, primarily, as a means of national safety. We build our battleships and maintain our army—not now in such a condition as I think adequate or desirable—for the same purpose. We utilize our advantages for commerce, but a still higher motive is the preservation of the Republic."

There is, we think, no truth in the report that the State's new board of water engineers will be headquartered in Dallas. Its work involves first-hand acquaintance with—did the Dallas Times Herald interrupt?

It used to be, "McKinley will give you free wool and tin plate if you'll wait 'til the sweet bye and bye." The Democrats had that for a campaign song when the major defeated the orator the first time. In 1912 the Republicans will be able to sing a song of free sugar nearer at hand and gnash their teeth at a vote per gnash.

Hon. Henry D. Clayton, of Alabama, with one foot on the sea of his claims to a seat in the senate and other on terra firma of his right to his "house membership is as busy as some of his colleagues ought to be in putting a stop to these disputes that interfere with the real task of the session.

Governor Colquitt will go to Panama late in September. So will Mr. Attorney General Looney. The day of their departure Texas paragraphers will express the hope that they will not attempt to advise the engineers how to keep Culebra free of landlides.

"The Bulgarian government was officially informed today that the European powers are considering measures to compel Turkey to respect the treaty of London." There's the respect that makes the Turks' calamity of so long life, we will wager.

By all means, Senator Hudspeth, make it easy for foreign corporations to come to Texas. And then we will implore that it be made possible for them to remain in Texas. Welcome sixteen months of sweet development, peace and quiet business.

A millionaire bachelor of St. Paul disappeared lately and his garments were found on a river bridge. That's the popular, old hoax of every rich bachelor who wants to be perfectly sure of remaining a bachelor and, therefore, rich.

Acting Governor Mayes lets it be known that there is nothing doing as to another called session while he flourishes the pen and Mr. Colquitt goes to hear other governors tell their troubles to Pike's Peak.

O, let the pros be presented gracefully with the speaker of the 34th house—on condition that he get along with the governor. Save all that trouble and expense of headquarters and canvass.

Washington has received a few thousand words of Huerta's 7000-word, "Nix!" Let the Republicans be very sure the message is not "collect" for the waste is great.

The governor offered to take the blame for prison system stringency, but the senate did not substitute by presenting him with confirmation of his prison commission appointees.

Texas Viewpoints

As It Likes It.

Let Editor Talmage of Marshall Messenger be not too hard on Dallas press's daily quota on the murder mystery. "Dallas newspapers rehash each day the account of the day before of the murder case," he writes. "They absolutely have nothing new to print, but they keep hammering at it as if the crime had just been committed. Were they making any attempts themselves to run down the murderer it might be different, but really no purpose in constantly working the bow on the same string is apparent." But the public wants to know, next morning, that the officers did nothing the day before—nothing that "got" anything. What else than "rehash" is possible, then? Surely the matter might not be disposed of in a paragraph stuck away "neath a puff of heated ozone from the halls of congress?"

Bank Account Adulation.

"City papers sometimes make fun of the personals in the country press," hits back Mt. Pleasant Times Review, "but the foolishness in the city papers about people with money is disgusting to the people who know the truth."

And certain New York big 'uns, Brother, even pay for those same personals if they are patently funny. A city paper recently spoke of the purchase by a Mr. B. of a painting, and said that his extensive travels and culture qualified him to judge art. The fact is that all who know Mr. B. know that he knows no more about art than he knows about Sanskrit. He has been a successful merchant, but as to his culture, the least said the better. He could not tell a chromo from a water color. He wouldn't know the difference between an 'old master' and a 'pot boiler' printed by machinery at $1 each. His wife or some one in whose judgment he had confidence might have told him it was a work of art, but he—it makes one tired to see the fulsome flattery by the city papers of people who only claim to prominence is that they have a large roll. Well, isn't that "some" claim, these days? But we like the comeback. It is a paragraph in confession and avoidance. The confession end of it consists in the fact that one of those same censured newspapers probably would pay six-bits for the bit about a "pot boiler" printed by machinery at $1 each."

Whispering Westbrook.

The 33rd, much "called" has adjourned, G. b. p. and it isn't likely the statesmanly senator referred to will have a chance to "personal privilege" we, so we can quite gleefully say by Col. Henry Ellis in Denison Herald: "Col. Lloyd P. Lochridge (that's Ole), editor of the Austin Statesman, incurred the displeasure of the eloquent Senator Westbrook from Collin and was forced to take a roast from the aggrieved Senator under the specious plea of privilege a few days ago. However, Lochridge had the last to say, and said it in no unmistakable way. It was George Armistead who dubbed Westbrook the 'Cicero' of the Senate, since which time he seems to enjoy hearing himself talk, even when his colleagues hunt the cloak rooms." They of the legislature, in some several sessions, who have taken occasion to "jump" local editors or the staff correspondents for that the print lacked praise and hid "burrah," nine times in ten have come to realize the game was scarce worth the garrulous gambol. We trust the Hon. Westbrook has attained to the same wisdom, on this head. The demented Don, fussing at windmills, wasn't a patch as a worker of the fiddle on Texas's solons who essay rebuke at the cost of the State's time and money because press paragraphs on their performances are short on plaudits. And young Mr. Lochridge is in Class A. as a maker of redhot rejoinders. It was our pleasure to hear the gentleman from Collin on but two occasions, in the regular and special sessions—and, hearing, we decided he was well named "Westbrook." These two talks were of the idee fixe sort, pointed in one direction and the bounds were not wide. "I go on forever"—in the one course.

Enlighten the Poor Pedestrian.

"It should be remembered, (San Antonio Express remembers) also, that automobile drivers are not always responsible for accidents. Drivers of other vehicles, and pedestrians, as well, frequently are not blameless. For this reason drivers of all vehicles should be required to observe the regulations imposed on automobiles, and pedestrians should be required to exercise proper caution." So? Likewise, why and how and which? Shall the foot travelers go about the streets only when no motor vehicles are in sight? In all Texas cities the sleets are not quite as long drawn out as in San Antonio. Sometimes there are as many as six motor cars rushing hither and yon on some streets in some cities. And the poor pedestrian must get over the car tracks occasionally.

Literally Self-Appointed.

(Brownwood Bulletin.)

The Waco Morning News is authority for the statement that when a town goes dry it becomes deceitful—the thrust being particularly aimed at Brownwood. The trouble with The News is that it takes the actions of a few as the actions of the whole town. Because there are a few in Brownwood who, in spite of prohibition, still occasionally get hold of a bottle of beer or a pint of whiskey, is no sign that the majority of the people indulge, and the conclusion of The News, with respect to Brownwood at least, is far fetched.

That Solated Battle.

(Marshall Messenger.)

Waco News: We have but one question to put to our friend, Caranza, who vows the constitutionalists will participate in no election run by the Huertista gang but will on with the battle. What has become of the battle?

It was lost, all because the dreadful United States has not permitted the rebels to have guns and ammunition. It is positively cruel the way we have treated the constitutionalists.

Is This Not a Verity?

Waco News speaks of a "friendship beyond politics." Most friendships are. Politics makes bedfellows, not friendships.

New York passed the half million mark for telephones in May and now has nearly as many instruments as London, Berlin and Paris combined.

Has Been Fifty Years Since Quantrell's Raid

Lawrence, Kan., Aug. 21.—When Quantrell's guerrillas, fifty years ago today, sacked Lawrence and killed nearly 200 of its unarmed inhabitants they committed a deed of murder for which probably no parallel could be found in all the south in civil war days. This statement was made today by Charles S. Gleed, one of the owners of the Kansas City Journal and former resident of Lawrence, in an address at a reunion of the survivors of the historic Quantrell raid.

Mr. Gleed told how the band of guerrillas organized in Missouri but consisting largely of Kansas outlaws, burning for fierce hatred for Lawrence, especially because it was the home of many settlers from New England and the middle Atlantic states, dashed into town on the night of Aug. 21, 1863, and massacred non-combatants unable to lift a hand in their own defense. Mr. Gleed with his widowed mother and a brother came from New England and settled in Lawrence shortly after the civil war.

Waco Can Handle the Cotton.

(Waco Tribune.)
 Mr. Quarles signed article, dealing with the omission of Waco in the plan of the government to help move the cotton crop, is along sensible and reliable lines. It seems that Waco need not hope to get a place in the list of favored cities. There is no disposition here to criticize the action of the treasury department, and less to doubt the good intentions of Secretary McAdoo. Undoubtedly he means well, and in shaping his procedure he followed the best of his knowledge, but it is perhaps quite natural that he should conclude that population was the safest and even the fairest rule. Waco has no quarrel with the secretary, though it may be regretted that he was not added at the outset, as to the real conditions to the producers of a concentration, for trade purposes, in Texas. In that case he would have realized what is the truth, that as a cotton market this city is so far ahead of San Antonio and Fort Worth that comparison is hardly worth while.

There is no petty jealousy here, either, of the preference accorded those two cities. We can imagine the surprise that the bankers and cotton men in San Antonio and Fort Worth must have felt when they learned that they were selected as points for deposit of government funds, and Waco omitted. It may be assumed that the San Antonio and Fort Worth bankers were not anticipating action of that nature, and that they were truly surprised at the agreeable surprise. Of course they accepted the situation and gracefully enough. Who looks a gift horse in the mouth? Naturally and properly, they felt proud of the prestige that was given to their city. It was a great honor to be expected they would suggest any vision of the treasury plan, because of the superior importance of Waco as a cotton market. They are as human as the rest of us and made known their appreciation. They do not need as much cotton money as Waco. They will have so much less cotton to handle, but it is to be believed they will use the funds apportioned to each city in a manner as helpful as possible, and we shall not grudge them the prestige which comes to a city as a result. Secretary McAdoo will perhaps repeat his commendable move next year—if government co-operation should seem to be advisable then. In such event, he will be better posted next time. He will know more about Waco as a cotton center. He has made a ten-strike, we think, in taking the step to help out the Southern cotton growers, as well as the grain producers of the West—and will have assurance of appreciation.

As Mr. Quarles remarks, the Waco banks will meet the needs of the cotton situation, as in past years, and adequately. They have the money and the connection to do all that is required, and indeed they have already set to work to the desired end. The receipts here are already quite large, ahead of last season, and from now on the movement will grow daily and there will be no lack of funds to handle the half million bales that our banks will furnish money to move during the 1913-14 season. The figures are not too large. Of course all the money required to pay for that half million bales and the by-product for the operations of the crushing plants, in seed, are immediately met by the supply of local banks. All the banks in the Waco trade territory will do their full share of the work. In the territory are many strong banks, potent for usefulness at all times, and especially in the cotton season. What we mean is that during the season the exporters and other cotton firms with headquarters in this city should and we believe will handle and shape the destination of 500,000 bales of cotton. The operation of these firms will cover a large area of the section of Texas and Oklahoma district that produced in 1912 slightly over 1,575,000 bales of the South's great staple.

England and the Exposition.

(Washington Post.)

That the Asquith ministry is out of touch with the British public is not merely with regard to the Marconi scandal whitewash and the workmen's insurance legislation, but with reference to the refusal to participate in the San Francisco exposition as well, is clearly demonstrated by the tone of the leading London newspapers.

The Morning Post takes the ground that the financial consideration involved is relatively small and urges the government to reconsider its decision not to participate. It is admitted in the editorial that the modification of the government's attitude would "provoke corresponding modifications in the attitude of the British manufacturers and traders." The Chronicle gives even a better reason for a reconsideration of the action that has been taken, pointing out that—

"Influential national representative committees have been organized in the United States, Canada, and England to make arrangements for celebrating the centenary of peace between the English-speaking peoples. The members of each government have associated themselves with the movement, and the memorials to be erected will be a national character. The San Francisco exhibition, happening in the same year as the centenary of the Ghent treaty, could also play some part in the celebration. There are other reasons why the time is opportune for this country to respond to the American invitation."

Evidently the objection to participation originated with the ministry itself. There was no sentiment in favor of a rejection of our invitation to the exposition. The government's attitude would "provoke corresponding modifications in the attitude of the British manufacturers and traders." Certainly this looks as though

Kansas border in war times were largely blamed by Mr. Gleed for the Lawrence raid.

"These agitators were well exemplified by the Squatter Sovereign, published in St. Joseph, Mo.," said Mr. Gleed.

"Here is how it talked: 'We are of the opinion that if the people of Leavenworth or Weston would hang one or two boatloads of abolitionists it would do more towards establishing peace in Kansas than all the speeches that have been delivered in congress during the present session.'"

William C. Quantrell, the guerrilla leader, Mr. Gleed described as a thin, cold, bloodless man, with great personal vanity, "who assassinated his own people if they got in his way," and of the type of man "who simply applied to human beings the practices of a cruel boyhood in the torturing and killing of animals."

"We cannot forget those who died and those who suffered," Mr. Gleed concluded, "but every drop of blood spilled that day nourished the flow of liberty."

The Asquith Ministry, and Not the Manufacturers, Objected to the Exposition for Some Political Reason.

It is always argued that blood is thicker than water when English statesmen are making an appeal for American friendship, but the blood apparently are not close enough to warrant the expenditure of $500,000 on an exhibit of English goods at San Francisco.

If ever there was a time when British manufacturers could make a splash by exhibiting at an American exposition, the time is right now, when the tariff is being reduced. From the standpoint of profit, there is more reason for British exhibits at San Francisco than there was for Boston and Chicago. England cannot explain her refusal on the ground of economy or lack of interest among her manufacturers. The manufacturers are willing, the newspapers are insisting, only the government itself is holding back.

Editor Rountree on Editorial Prowess.

(Georgetown Commercial.)

Vide the "Easter Message" and vale the "Good Friday Message" and dump ashes on the "Prodigal Son Message." The editorial writer in this state is doing something in the scorpion-whip-scouring line himself—But it's wasted work.—Waco Morning News.

Colonel Quarles is young. He has forgotten when Governor James Stephen Hogg had passed THE railroad commission when the "scouring" and "scouring" would do, in 1891. He has forgotten when Governor Charles A. Culberson in 1897 vetoed the entire appropriation bill and wrote a famous message. One hundred days had been wasted in a better an appropriation bill, a fellow servant bill and a fee bill had been passed. Colonel Quarles is reminded that the Commercial doesn't pretend to have any influence with a certain class. But against any man's decision, was against a proposition right or wrong, on account of the views of some others he is a dangerous citizen—in or out of office. As Colonel Quarles grows older he will learn that it is not the editors for Texas or the governor and the legislature to engage in a regular Kilkenny cat fight. The thing has grown contemptible and pusillanimous and is a disgrace to Texas. Men who quarrel continually are unfit for leadership and ought to be driven out of power.

THE COUNTRY LIFE PROBLEM.

"The largest problem that faces American civilization today is the building up of country life," declares Walter H. Page, ambassador to England, in a bulletin on "Education in the South," just issued by the United States Bureau of Education. We have just passed through a period of organization of the machinery of the modern world, making the city and the railroad, but the country has been left out. Now we must build it up and keep it that in the coming decades, as in the past, the character and the vision of American life will come from the soil.

"In our early days the characteristic of the people of the United States was individualism. Great as the value of the cause of democracy, it rested upon a false economic basis. A man's home can be his castle, for he is mutually linked as his brother's keeper, whether he will or no. A larger vision and a large liberty and a larger reason for the country upon us as the task for our working hours. We must organize in the country."

Speaking of the work of the Conference for Education in the South to which the bureau's bulletin is chiefly devoted, Mr. Page says: "The historian of the progress of democracy could not write a more thrilling chapter than the events of the past ten or fifteen years, taking as the cue the note of the Conference for Education in the South. We began with a school and the child, and we end with them, of course; but every step has been toward a widening democratic ideal, to see how we could teach one another, and we have come to have a broadening sense of all that co-operation."

"To till the soil, to train the children, to make the home, a work of continuous human service, I count these the greatest privileges that can fall to the lot of man. We have worked on a practical plan, bringing to pass the dream of the fathers, that our republic shall be and remain the hope of the world."

For a Clear Field.

(Lloyd P. Lochridge, Austin Statesman.)

Let us hope that the liquor legislation will be gotten out of the way before the session closes that it may not be a question to trouble the next legislature. We have had a long talk with Abe Gross of Waco and he tells us that the sensible people of Texas are ready to forget past differences and elect a governor next year who will look to the upbuilding of Texas without regard to prohibition or anti-prohibition. We are depending on the Waco colonel to make good his prediction, and therefore we want to lose no time in side-tracking pro and anti factional fights.

To keep automobilists' feet warm in cold weather an Englishman has invented a hot water tank with foot-shaped depressions in the top.

MR. HENRY GRATEFUL

THANKS THE MORNING NEWS FOR FAIR TREATMENT OF HIS VIEWS.

Says the People Are Coming to His Support in Trying to Better Currency Bill.

To The Morning News:

Allow me to give assurance of grateful appreciation for your editorial of August 15 entitled "For the Farmer." Such manifestation of fair treatment is appreciated by a public servant fighting for his convictions and endeavoring to defend the rights of the man who is demanding square deal for her great staple, product—cotton.

When this contest began I contended that the Glass bill discriminated against the farmer and have now about convinced everybody in congress from the south and west. Please observe how beautifully the recruits are flocking to our standard from Texas, the entire South and the West and hastening to proclaim for our principle. At first they said we should not amend the bill and the suggestion of an amendment made one an "insurgent." Now we cannot do the "amending" speedily enough to preserve the political interests of some gentlemen.

In the banking committee and in the caucus we frequently forced Mr. Glass to assert that the bill forbids "the rediscounting of agricultural paper based on warehouse certificates." The bill reads, in section 14: "Upon the endorsement of any member bank any federal reserve bank may discount notes and bills of exchange arising out of commercial transactions, etc." We challenged and defied him and said this is not fair to the farmer. We contended that the farmer is entitled to secure money from these banks on his paper based on warehouse receipts upon the same terms as the banker and commercialist. He fought us, denied our argument, and said it was preposterous, that it would allow the farmer to hold his cotton and speculate in the hope that it would rise in price while he held it. This is the most stupid speculation and gambling pure and simple on the part of the farmer. He insisted that this credit and currency that we are to farm out in his bill should go to the "business channels," the bankers, merchants, etc. We denied his argument and are rapidly driving him from his position and are about to amend the bill, but need the help of the farmers' and laborers' friends.

We are asserting and reasserting that the farmer has the absolute and unqualified right to hold his cotton and products, to put up his warehouse receipts at these proposed banks, just like the business man puts up his paper, secure the money and hold his crop until the market advances him. He crops in sunshine and rain from daylight to dark in the field to grow his cotton, a better security even than gold, for it brings gold to us from the furthest limits of the earth when nothing else will; and he should now have his crop in a better market than from these banks on his assets and hold his crop, upon the same terms upon which we farm out government credit and let the money to the banker and commercialist under the new Glass asset system.

He should not be branded as a "speculator" and "speculator" when he seeks to come in under this system and ask for money upon the same terms in order that he may hold his products. Shame on the representative who would brand him as a "speculator" and "speculator" when he craves this square deal in a readjustment of our currency laws.

Remember, for illustration, that Mr. Glass in his bill makes provision for taking care of the "commercial" paper of Colonel Marshall and David Lamar when they wish to get up plans to depress the prices of agricultural products. But when the farmer wants some of this money in the same way and at the same cost so that he may hold his crop for a better market, he is dubbed a "speculator" and "speculator."

And for my position in demanding the farmers' rights I am denounced as an "insurgent." Well, if this is insurgency, let there be more of it. Watch our tribe increase.

Please think those gentlemen whose names are recorded in the press as coming to our ranks from day to day and ask them to exert for more credits and we will see justice for the agricultural and industrial classes. There are some who are ready to accept my view now, but are not willing to use enough language to make it plain. They would leave it equivocal so that the supreme court would have to decide whether or not the "commercial" transactions altogether or possibly included "agricultural" as well. My fight is and has been that if we are to set up this huge asset currency system and farm out the credit of the government and furnish currency from the mint, we must not confine it to the banker and commercialist alone upon their notes and paper merchandise, but extend its provisions to the farmer and industrialist upon the same terms. Let us make it so plain that the who runs may read and know that we have commanded in this law in good and plain English that the farmer shall have these banks on his warehouse receipts as collateral, and that he is no "speculator" and "speculator" because, forsooth, he is the great producer of this republic, wishes to hold his crop yet a little while for a better market.

Hope that you will aid me in getting the truth to the people, I am, with cordial regards,

Sincerely yours,

ROBERT L. HENRY.

Great Indian Post Arrives.

India seems at last to have produced a great poet, and there have been very few since the days of Manabharata. Mr. W. B. Yeats, who knows good poetry when he sees it, and even writes occasionally, says of the lately published volume by Rabindranath Tagore: "He has carried the mantric incantation of the Vedas down about him for me for days, reading it in railway trains or on the top of omnibuses and in restaurants, and I have often had to close it lest some stranger would see how much it moved me."

Williams Downs Johnston in Newport Tournament

Young Californian Is Beaten By Easterner. Decisive Match of Meet to Be Today. McLaughlin vs. Clothier.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 21.—Of the 145 tennis players who entered the thirty-third annual all-comers singles championship tournament of the United States lawn tennis association Monday, there remain just ten in the list tonight. After a day of sensational contests, in which the defeat of William M. Johnston by R. Norris Williams was the feature, it was conceded that the standard of play had never reached the point of excellence which marked the present tourney.

Williams required four sets in which to win from Johnston, the scores being 6-2, 6-4, 5-6, 6-4, but the margin of victory was far closer than the score of games would indicate. The Californian was forced to bow to the more finished play of his opponent, but not until he had put up a battle which aroused another record gallery in a manner seldom seen at the Casino courts. It was a thrilling battle of rackets and in the end the Philadelphia conqueror because of his experience and nonchalance under stress of a grueling contest.

Williams displayed his usual indifference to breaks in his play and played as if to a prearranged plan.

It was this facility that finally gave him the match. In service volleying, back court and net play he was little if any superior to Johnston and it was his placement alone that earned him the victory.

Williams won a total of 156 points, with Johnston only seven behind with 149. Placements were 61 for Williams and 36 for Johnston.

Although the Williams-Johnston match was the grandstand court feature, the contests on the other courts did not lack merit. As was expected, Champion M. E. McLaughlin defeated Robert Leroy in straight sets and William Clothier likewise won from W. L. Pate. Wallace Johnston and J. H. Strachan also came through another round, defeating respectively J. G. Brown Jr. and C. M. Bull Jr.

William Washburn won from R. Evans Jr. and Leonard Beekman eliminated F. W. Cole after a hard five-set match. The upset of the day was the defeat of G. P. Gardner Jr. by Nat Niles in four sets, reversing the usual result when these players have met heretofore.

In the interscholastic championship the semi-final round was reached with G. C. Caner defeating W. L. McKim and J. H. Weber defeating William Blair. The Harvard and Chicago scholastic titleholders will meet tomorrow for the championship, but the feature of Friday was in the battle of McLaughlin and William Clothier on the grandstand court. Experts predict that the winner of this match will next week be acclaimed the United States champion of 1913.

Tanner Still Strong With Stick and Waco Wins 4-1

Waco took the game 4 to 1, but that wasn't the feature of the afternoon; the real achievement at Katy Park yesterday was the production of final and convincing evidence that Houston has been carrying a concealed weapon in the shape of a horse shoe. Austin's second baseman is credited with the proof of this fact, which Waco fans have long suspected.

Markley produced the identical sort of hit which was a home run for Knaupp, the Buffalo second baseman. The ball hit the fence in the selfsame spot and bounced off—but not with the selfsame bounce. That's where indisputable evidence was produced that the Buffs do carry a horse shoe. Knaupp's hit bounced over for a home run; Markley's fell back into the park for a single.

That was ordinary luck vs. Houston luck. And against the ordinary variety Waco can win out, as yesterday proved. Huddle Tanner was once more raising dust all through the game. He still refuses to regard the rights of pitching averages of the opposing twirlers. The first time up yesterday he won the game. It was very simple. With Renard resting on first after a walk, Arch lined the ball out of the park via left field fence. He only got that home run and a single out of three times at bat. The hot weather, some say, in taking his pep.

Duguey was also a little off his feed and allowed himself to be walked three times; the other time up he could only single. This kept his batting for the day at a thousand, however, which Jake says is as good as he has done on a Thursday for several weeks. He made up by a pretty piece of fielding, when he ran a few hundred yards and took a sideways dive which captured a would-be single in mid-air.

The Game by Innings. Hill and Larson were both liberal with walks. In the opening session Hill's generosity would have hurt his chances had it not been for a bit of scintillation by his infield which pulled him out with no fatal results. After Roche fouled out Cliff issued passes to Haigh and James; but Beck swung on to Melver's bouncer and shot it to Duguey, who passed it along to Wohlleben before Melver could reach the station.

The two runs which Waco brought home per A. Tanner in the second were too simple to require further description. In the fourth, Larson was fined $5 and probably had his sensibilities injured by the umpire's plain talk. It was Larson's fault in one way, however. He saw Crichtlow slide into second, and thought Howell was going to call it a safe steal, whereupon he began to unload his candid opinions before he realized that Crichtlow had been called out.

Yes, that $5 could have been spent somewhere else to better advantage. Lefty Lewis singled in the fifth and went to second when Crichtlow had trouble picking up the ball. Roche followed soon afterwards with a single to right, and Lefty saved Austin from the whitewash.

Duguey drew one of his numerous walks in the eighth, and improved the opportunity by going to second when there was nobody around to take a peg. McLaughlin singled, and Duguey took third. As the two Naves were preparing to execute a double steal, Larson heaved one away off to starboard, and Duguey came home. Wohlleben got a good one to center, and McLaughlin scored.

Hill held the Senators hitless for the first three innings, and they had only touched him for a trio of bingles during the first eight rounds, but in the last he let up a little after two were down, and allowed two more.

Another big leaguer has come back. Cy Morgan, pitcher, released by the Athletics over a year ago and now with Kansas City, was bought by the Cincinnati Reds and will join that team in the East. The terms were not announced.

Fritz Maisel, $15,000 Third Baseman, Bought by Frank Chance, Manager of New York Americans

of the Champion Cubs of Chicago, has had a severe trial since he has been in New York, trying to rejuvenate the former American league club of that city. He and Frank Farrell, chief owner of the club, have come to the conclusion that the only way they can get a winning club is to pay high prices for players. So they did just what Jimmy Callahan, manager of the Chicago White Sox, did when he wanted the speedy Larry Chappell from Milwaukee. Callahan had to pay $12,000 and give two good players.

GRADING FOR CORN IS QUIET AT ALBANY

SEVEN TENTATIVE CLASSES ARE FORMULATED BY AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT.

Galloway Gives Out Descriptions So That the Public May Be Informed.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Seven grades for commercial corn, tentatively formulated by the department of agriculture office of grain standardization, were announced today. The descriptions were given out by Acting Secretary Galloway so the public may be fully informed regarding them before they finally are adopted as the grades for commercial corn.

A formal hearing will be held here the latter part of September or some time during October, when government officials will listen to any suggestions from the corn trade or others interested, before the grades finally are adopted.

Description of the grade, classification of white, yellow and mixed corn, in maximum percentages, follow:

Grade	White	Yellow	Mixed
No. 1	100	100	100
No. 2	95	95	95
No. 3	90	90	90
No. 4	85	85	85
No. 5	80	80	80
No. 6	75	75	75

White Corn—All grades shall be at least 90 per cent white.

Sample Grades—All corn does not meet the requirements of any of the six numerical grades by reason of an excessive percentage of moisture, damaged kernels, foreign matter or badly broken corn; of corn that is hot, heat damaged, fire burnt, infested with live weevil or otherwise of distinctly low quality.

General rules tentatively adopted included: Corn in grades No. 1 to No. 5 must be sweet.

Yellow Corn—All grades shall be at least 95 per cent yellow.

Mixed Corn—All grades shall include

PROMISES BY GLYNN OF NO OUTBURST AT CAPITAL ARE KEPT.

Sulzer Remains in Conclusion of Private Offices—Thaw Matter Is All He Handles.

Albany, Aug. 21.—True to the promise of Acting Governor Glynn, there were no "political earthquakes" at the capital today. An atmosphere of placidity pervaded both suites of executive chambers.

Governor Sulzer remained in the seclusion of his private office and his only official act was to take a hand in the Thaw deportation matter by requesting the assistance of the federal authorities.

Mr. Glynn spent considerable time over the same matter. He also honored two requisitions for fugitives from justice of the governor of Georgia and the governor of Massachusetts.

The expectation that a sharp skirmish would be precipitated by a requisition by the acting governor for the services of some of the members of the gubernatorial staff now quartered in Governor Sulzer's apartments, failed to materialize. Mr. Glynn announced that for the present he is being efficiently served by members of his own staff.

corn of various colors not coming within the limits for color as provided under white or yellow corn.

No. 6—Grade must be musty, sour or of inferior quality and reasons for so grading must be stated on the inspector's ticket or certificate and must also be stated for sample grade.

THAW NOW PLANS TO BE DEPORTED

Canada. The roads were of the old corduroy variety and the horse was exhausted. When two miles from Canaan on the Canadian side, the party was compelled to forsake the rig and hire another from an old French-Canadian farmer, Octave Neday. The best that Neday could give them was one horse and a rickety buggy. In this way they made slow progress over the bad roads till St. Henri, en route de Garford was reached, when Thaw was arrested.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lauder Carnegie, Thaw's brother-in-law and sister, left town tonight. Mrs. Thaw, the mother, would not come here, they said.

"We have and we shall retain the best available counsel for Harry," said Mr. Carnegie. "We are well pleased with the progress of the case to date. I feel certain that his days of confinement now are very few. I have telegraphed to Harry's mother that there is no need of her coming here."

Asked pointblank just before he stepped on the train if the Thaw family would support the five men who managed Thaw's escape by automobile, Carnegie shrugged his shoulders and said:

"Well, of course, we expect to do the proper thing."

Bryan Wins Authorities.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Without authority to make a formal request in the name of the United States government for the delivery of Harry K. Thaw by the Canadian authorities, Secretary Bryan late today responded to acting Governor Glynn's appeal for assistance in the effort to bring the Matteawan fugitive back to New York by sending the following personal telegram to the British ambassador, Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice, now at Dublin, N. H.:

"We are informed that Harry K. Thaw, who lately escaped from an insane asylum in New York, in which he was confined after acquittal of murder on the ground of insanity, is in custody in the province of Quebec, with a view to his deportation under the Canadian immigration laws. The department, while not in a position to make a request in the matter, which in its present aspect is not within our extradition treaty, regards it as your notice with a view to such action as the Canadian authorities may find themselves justified in taking."

Copies of the acting governor's message to Mr. Bryan were turned over to the bureau of immigration, but in official circles here it was believed tonight there would be no further action on the part of the federal authorities. The immigration bureau deals only with aliens and the state department can do nothing in the absence of grounds for seeking Thaw's extradition.

The Sulzer message had not reached the state department at the closing hour today and copies of Secretary Bryan's telegram to the ambassador were forwarded only to Acting Governor Glynn and Attorney Carmody.

Secretary Bryan carefully avoided taking any part in New York's controversy over the governorship, addressing the telegram to "Martin H. Glynn, State Capitol, Albany, N. Y."

While Mr. Glynn's telegram had not been formally laid tonight before Secretary Bryan, tomorrow a copy of the telegram sent to Ambassador Spring-Rice will be similarly transmitted to Mr. Sulzer.

Interpretation of Law.

New York, Aug. 21.—Examination of the statutes of New Hampshire and Vermont do not reveal authority for the extradition of Harry Thaw from either of those states to New York on the ground that he is an escaped lunatic.

The statutes covering extradition relate only to fugitives from justice from another state who must be charged with a crime committed in that state.

This was the interpretation of the statutes of the two states given by competent attorneys of this city today. It was pointed out that the warrant charging Thaw with conspiracy, issued by the authorities of Dutchess county, New York, could be made the basis for extradition proceedings.

It was held that if the question were then brought up in the state where extradition was asked that Thaw, being insane, could not have committed a crime—that this question could not be adjudicated by the authorities of that state. The question would be, the New York authorities to decide after his extradition.

A decision of the United States supreme court in the matter of extradition between states holds that whether the charge brought is legal and "sufficiently laid in the indictment" is a judicial question to be decided by the courts of the state in which the crime was committed and not by the executive authority of the state upon which the demand is made.

Thaw once brought back in this manner, the question then soon would come up in the state of New York as to whether being a lunatic under the laws of that state he could be tried on the charge of conspiracy. Whether guilty or not he would be in the custody of the New York authorities and there would be nothing to prevent his reincarceration in Matteawan, it was said.

Glynn and Sulzer Busy.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Both men who claim to be New York State's Thaw case today and there was much telegraphing and telephoning. Governor Sulzer late today made his initial move in the matter, so far as has been disclosed, when he telegraphed Secretary of State Bryan at Washington asking that the American consul general at Ottawa advise the Canadian authorities to return Thaw to the jurisdiction of this state at Rouses Point, N. Y.

Several hours previously, Acting Governor Glynn conjointly with Attorney General Carmody, sent a telegram in duplicate to Mr. Bryan and to the federal secretary of commerce, requesting them "in the name of the state of New York" ask Canadian immigration authorities to deport Harry K. Thaw to the state of New York. The telegram emphasized the importance of haste.

There also was an exchange of telegrams between Mr. Glynn and Commissioner Scott, and Fred C. Blair, supervisor of the immigration bureau at Ottawa.

Supervisor Blair advised Mr. Glynn by telephone that his department would use every effort to have Thaw returned direct to New York state.

ROAD CAMPAIGN ENDS PROTESTS AGAINST JOHNSON

GOVERNOR MAJOR AND 250,000 ASSISTANTS FINISH TWO DAYS' WORK.

Estimated Cost of Improvement in Missouri if Paid for is $1,500,000.

Kansas City, Aug. 21.—Sunset put an official end today to Governor Major's two good road days, during which it is estimated 250,000 business men and farmers went to the highways to give their work that Missouri might receive impetus to become one of the leading good road states of the union.

When the last man laid down his pick and shovel tonight it was estimated the work done had it been paid for, would have amounted to $1,500,000.

As Governor Major at Jefferson City bade the last of his workers stop their labors, Governor Hodges of Kansas, who has been helping Governor Major with the "job," grasped the Missouri executive's hand and said:

"It's over, governor, and I congratulate you and the state of Missouri."

"And I thank you and the people of Kansas for letting you come down to help us," responded Governor Major. Governor Major was host at a dinner tonight for Governor Hodges. The Kansas executive will leave late tonight for Topeka, and it is announced he will issue a call for two general road days.

SKULL FRACTURED IN FIGHT.

Dallas Man May Die After Fight Bout in Saloon.

Dallas, Aug. 21.—Charles A. Clem, employed by the Katy railroad, is believed to be dying at the city hospital. He sustained a fractured skull in a fist fight in a saloon near Ross and Griffin streets Wednesday evening.

From the account of the affair, that Clem was able to give to the doctors at the emergency hospital it appears that a man with whom he quarreled in the saloon hit him under the jaw. He fell down on the floor and struck his head against the concrete flooring. He says that his assailant ran away. Clem made this statement on the operating table before lapsing into unconsciousness. He has never recovered his senses and his death is expected momentarily, according to Drs. Card and Carr, who are attending him.

Police summoned from the lower station investigated the occurrence, but were unable to make an arrest. The man who struck Clem was apparently a working man, as he was clad in overalls. He left the saloon immediately after the fight and has not been seen since. By direction of Chief of Detectives Henry Tanner plain clothes officers are busy on the case.

Wind Hurts Match.

Camp Perry, Ohio, Aug. 21.—Today's program of the National Rifle association's tournament was disarranged by a wind and rainstorm after the first stage of the president's match. Captain W. H. Clopton, Thirteenth United States cavalry, had the highest score in the first stage, 145, with Corporal C. H. Long, Massachusetts, second with 144. The match will be finished Saturday.

The Evans skirmish run, which was to have opened today with eleven teams, will open Friday afternoon and be concluded Saturday.

It is probable that seven teams, representing Sweden, Switzerland, France, Peru, Argentina, Canada and the United States, will take part in the international match, which opens September 1. Germany will be represented in the individual matches, but will not send a team.

London City Artists' Federations Condemn Engaging Negro Pupilists in Vaudeville.

London, Aug. 21.—Engagement of Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, by a London music hall was condemned at a meeting today of the various city artists' federations. Regret was expressed that the rules of the federation prevent the executive committee from taking drastic action. A resolution was adopted characterizing the engagement of Johnson as a violation of public decency.

Hostility to the boxer's appearance is growing and seems likely his engagement will be cancelled.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

WORKING HARD ON CURRENCY BILL

HOUSE, CAUCUS AND DEMOCRATIC MEMBERS CONSIDER MEASURE.

FEARS CHARGES OF SURRENDER

Wings Says Unless Caucus Supports Interlocking Directorate, Amendment Will Hurt Party.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Both the house democratic caucus and the conference of democratic members of the senate committee on banking and currency considered the administration currency bill today.

One minor amendment was voted into the bill in the caucus, which adjourned until tomorrow with the Neely amendment pending to prohibit any member from being a director of more than one bank.

Representative Wings of Arkansas declared at the close of the session that if the caucus should vote down the interlocking directorate prohibition amendment it would furnish the republicans with campaign material for a charge that the democratic party had surrendered to Cleveland Lodge and Cyrus McCormick, heavy contributors to the Wilson campaign fund.

There was no real test of the so-called insurgent strength at any time today, but all amendments proposed were voted down overwhelmingly, the vote in one case being 21 to 163.

Protest from Bankers.
Chicago, Aug. 21.—Protest against the administration currency bill is expected to be the result of a conference of the bankers from all over the country, which will begin here tomorrow. Amendments probably will be recommended to eliminate some of the features of the Glass-Owen bill now pending in congress.

More than 250 bankers are expected to attend the conference. Among them will be members of the currency commission of the American Bankers' association, presidents of the various state bankers' associations, presidents of banks representing clearing houses and other representative bankers. The conference is to be under the auspices of the Bankers' Currency commission, which has invited the financiers of the country to come together to unite on a plan of action concerning the proposed currency bill.

A large delegation of eastern bankers and a number of western bankers who have been in Washington conferring with Secretary McAdoo are expected here for the meetings. A. B. Hepburn of New York, head of the commission, Col. Frederick E. Farnsworth of New York, secretary, Wm. Woodward, president, Hanover National bank, New York, representing New York banks, and Geo. M. Reynolds of Chicago are among the prominent financiers expected to take part in the meetings.

The principal objections of the bankers to the bill as it stands were stated today by Charles Dawes, delegated to represent the Chicago Clearing House association, to be the federal reserve board, members who would be appointed by the president.

"If this bill is passed our banking system will be projected again into the future," said Mr. Dawes. "The great system of national banks is part of the fabric of business. No greater calamity could come than any alleged measure of reform which would cripple the banking system. It is dangerous to tamper with it. Capital must be awakened to this menace and not defer action until it is too late."

Oliver Gets Appointment.
Austin, Aug. 21.—Dr. A. C. Oliver, senator from the First senatorial district, today was appointed by the governor superintendent of the Confederate home, to succeed Col. Richard Lyles, who has resigned, effective September 1. Dr. Oliver has accepted the appointment.

George W. Dollahite of Terrell, Kaufman county, has been appointed quartermaster and bookkeeper at the home, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Capt. Ben McCulloch.

CREATOR A WOMAN.

Old Tablet Recently Discovered So Says.

It was a woman who created mankind, according to a tablet 4,000 years old just deciphered at the Pennsylvania University museum by Dr. Arno Poebel, who is at work translating the tablets dug up in Nippur some years ago by the museum expeditions.

This discovery is not only the most important in the history of the museum, but in many respects the most important in the history of civilization. About 37 years ago George Smith, the English scholar and explorer, brought back from Babylonia the cylinders which gave a Babylonian account of the origin of mankind and much of his early history, and these not only excited great interest, but had a profound effect upon the theological teachings. The parallelism between the Babylonian story and that of Genesis developed a new school in theological criticism. But the cylinders of Smith only dated back to the reign of Assurbanipal in the seventh century B. C. The university museum tablet dates back possibly 2500 B. C. and it is reasonably certain to be no later than the reign of Hammurabi, about 2100 B. C.

The new account of the creation and the flood throws much new light on the early ideas of the Babylonians and Sumerians.

Furniture of Sheet Steel.

Sheet steel is the latest material utilized in the making of furniture. It is used for sideboards, wardrobes, chiffoniers, writing desks, and is finished in such perfect imitation of the various woods that the difference cannot be detected. The wood finish is applied under a very high temperature, becoming an integral part of the metal and never cracking. This unique furniture has the recommendation of being fireproof, and a lighted match left on a pressed steel sideboard would have no effect whatever on its surface.

LEADER OF VENEZUELA'S NATIONALIST PARTY TAKES UMBRAJE AT REPORT OF HIS EJECTION FROM LEADERSHIP

José M. Hernandez.

"IT WAS THEN WHEN GENERAL CASTRO CALLED ME A 'SUPERIOR MAN'."—EL MOCHO.

Declaring that General Rafael de Nogales-Mendes is a "pinhead," whom he refuses to dignify by answering, General José Manuel Hernandez, known as "El Mocho," the accredited leader of the nationalist party of Venezuela and candidate for President, dealt with vehemence the published statement of General Nogales-Mendes that there was a revolution in the ranks of the party for the avowed purpose of politically decapitating General Hernandez on the ground that he is too old to lead his party to victory.

General Hernandez said he was willing to say that the nationalist party is prepared to assume its proper place in Venezuelan politics, now that General Castro and President Gomez are fighting their duel to the death. He declares that while General Castro is a murderer, who ought to be exterminated for the benefit of mankind, he is in no sense in sympathy with President Gomez, whose administration, he says, has been aimed principally at self-aggrandizement and therefore harmful to the Venezuelan nation.

FRANK J. BATTLE DIES OF WOUNDS

Former Waco Citizen Succumbs—Is Shot Three Times From Behind—Cause of Murder Is a Mystery. Officers Claim They Have Clues

Gatesville, Aug. 21.—Frank J. Battle, who was shot last night, died this morning and was buried here today at 5 o'clock p. m. Mr. Battle came in last night from Waco on the 8 o'clock train. He was with a man employed in a bakery. He went in the back door of the store to get an apron. As Battle came out of the back door he was shot. From indications he was struck in the forehead, the bullet ranging upward. The second shot struck in the left breast at the seventh rib and ranged upward, coming out under the right shoulder. The third shot struck one and one-half inches below the ribs and came out in the chest. The boys are believed to have been made. A great many seeming clues have been run down with no results. The officers and citizens are doing all that can be done to get some clue that will lead to success. The officers and many citizens worked all night. The whole affair is very much of a mystery and officers are puzzled over it.

Chris Kemendo of this city went to Gatesville yesterday afternoon to attend the funeral of F. J. Battle and to assist in the investigation.

Battle was 36 years of age and had lived in Waco for about seven years, having come here from Temple. He was in the grocery business with C. H. Cox and V. Kemendo. He took an active part in social club life, being one of the leaders of the "Beavers" club, and also was well known in political circles, being a member of the McLennan county democratic executive committee.

About three months ago he moved to Gatesville and bought out F. A. Thompson's grocery business. He was married in Gatesville to Miss Minnie Hammond of that city.

Battle leaves four brothers and three sisters, Lewis, Joe, Charles and Paul Battle; Mrs. V. Kemendo of Waco; Mrs. Ben Baugh of Waco and Mrs. Lucagay of San Antonio.

BOYS RAISE CRAWFISH.

They Supply Springfield, Mo., With Delicacy.

Raising crawfish to supply the lovers of this delicacy is an unique industry of two Greene county farmer boys, Frank and Freddie Woods, who conduct a flourishing and lucrative business by the use of a large pond on the farm of their father, two and a half miles north of Springfield, says the New York Sun. The boys are believed to have the only crawfish farm in Missouri.

Four thousand of the crustaceans are marketed each week. They have a standing order with a St. Louis fish house for 1000 crawfish to be shipped every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and for 600 on Thursdays and Fridays. Last year they sold about 30,000 crawfish in St. Louis for which they received $356 a thousand. This year they expect to ship between 60,000 and 100,000.

On the property where the crawfish are raised a large spring supplies the water for a pond covering several acres. This lake is known thick with a peculiar moss which is found in no other part of the county. Feeding upon this moss is a shellfish of the periwinkle species. Upon the periwinkle and the moss crawfish feed in countless numbers.

The crawfish are caught with a small hand seine. One of the boys follows the edge of the pond with one end of the seine, while the other wades out to armpit depths with the other end. A single drag with the seine will often reward the boys with a catch of more than 250 snail-like crawfish. The market requirements are for crawfish at least three inches in length. Many of the crawfish are eight inches long.

Seining for crawfish is done at night. An acetylene lamp is used by the boys to detect the presence of the "crawdads" feeding upon the moss at the edge of the pond is not more than an hour is required each night to fill an order for 1000 of the creatures.

These are packed alive in baskets with wet moss and they reach their destination by express in good shape. Crawfish, like lobsters, are boiled alive. After being boiled the shell is easily removed, leaving the white flaky flesh, which can be eaten at once or prepared in various ways for the table. Many of the restaurants in St. Louis serve crawfish soup.

The crawfish multiply in the pond without being cared for in any way and all the two Woods boys make is clear profit. The industry takes up little of their time and the work of catching the crawfish and shipping them to market does not interfere with their school work and their chores.

ANCIENT TENEMENTS.

Skyscrapers Built in Rome in the Year A. D. 69.

The tenement house is not a modern institution by any means. So great was the number of such houses in ancient Rome and so badly were they constructed that in A. D. 69 the Emperor Otho, who was marching against Vitellius, found his way barred for twenty miles by the ruins of tenement houses that had been undermined by inundation.

The spontaneous collapse of tenement houses in those days was so common an occurrence that little attention was paid to it. The tenants have been described by a writer of the times as constantly fearing to be burned or buried alive. Companies existed for the purpose of propping and sustaining houses.

In comparison with the modern tenements, those of Rome were excessively high. Martial alludes to a poor man, his neighbor, who was obliged to mount 200 steps to reach his garret. That garret must have been perched nearly 100 feet above the level of the street. Emperor Augustus, to make less frequent the occurrence of disasters, limited the height of new houses that opened upon the streets to about 65 feet.

Rocking Is Bad for Babies.

The use of a cradle for rocking a baby was characterized as worse than barbarism by Dr. Le Roy L. Walker at the mothers' clinic in the Children's Homeopathic hospital, says the Philadelphia Record. The cradle, he said, should never have been instituted and was a scourge to the little ones who were forced to suffer by its motion. Dr. Walker tried to prove to the mothers that babies, like themselves, when they cried usually were in pain or need, and that they would regard it as worse than cruel to have to be churned to and fro as a cure for their condition.

"The babies, like grownups," said the doctor, "prefer quiet when they are ill, and the usual remedies of being thrown in the air or rocked in a cradle are nothing more than the relics of barbarism. Children suffer intensely from this injudicious treatment by their parents and frequently are made physical and mental wrecks from it."

Dr. Walker also laid particular stress upon the necessity of the mothers being well nourished themselves if they wished the babies to be healthy. They should remember that there is no economy in stinting their food, as it only results in the extra expense of medicine and artificial food for the little one.

OFFER STATE CAMP GROUND.

State Epworth League Campers Will Be Bought by Marlin.

Marlin, Aug. 21.—Secretary Mrs. H. H. Hawkins of the Commercial club and G. W. Glass, president of the Young Men's Business league, have sent communications to State President of the Epworth League, A. K. Ragsdale of Dallas, setting forth the many advantages of Marlin as a camping place for the state league, which recently sold their camp grounds at Corpus Christi and are seeking a favorable location to be in readiness for the encampment of 1914.

Marlin has several very desirable locations to offer a body of this kind, and in each instance the natural conditions are such as to render the grounds very easy to put in readiness for occupancy.

The State Epworth League is said to have a camping season of two to three months each year, and are a desirable class of people to attract to this place. All the churches of Marlin will be asked to co-operate with the local civic organizations in the matter.

To Continue Katy Suits at Wichita September First

Austin, Aug. 21.—The hearings to continue taking testimony in the state's suit against the Katy will be continued at Wichita Falls on September 1.

The transcript of the evidence adduced in the cotton hearing at Galveston several weeks ago arrived today. It comprises two bound volumes, totalling 946 pages. Action by the commission has been deferred because the evidence had not arrived. A decision on the readjustment of the cotton rates is expected within a short time.

The data necessary to base the state's suit against Texas railroads at Galveston on the question as to whether or not reconsigned freight offered the Texas railroads on local bills of lading to a Texas destination are, in fact, intrastate, has been gathered by Railroad Commissioner Williams and Assistant Attorney General Luther Nickels.

The railroads contend such freight comprises interstate shipments and therefore the commission has no jurisdiction and did not have authority to require the absorption of the loading charges.

Germany Lacks War Strength.

London, Aug. 21.—Replying to a query whether Germany's recent army increases meant an attack on France, August Bebel, the late German socialist leader, just before his death at Zurich on August 13, wrote the following letter, which is published today in the Pall Mall Gazette:

"The German emperor has seen during the Balkan war that our army has completely gone to pieces—that is, our officers are incapable of commanding, and the material is absolutely impossible. If the French had wished to attack us, they would have better success, for we were not strong enough at the frontier. If the French had guessed they were strong enough, they would have begun an attack."

"The German emperor saw that French arms had much greater importance in the Balkan war than had German ones. He also knew the military element from Germany that helped the Turks were to blame for the misfortunes of the Turks. It is an open secret that Germany was to blame for this defeat."

These facts, Herr Bebel assured his correspondent, had been obtained from the best sources.

INVESTIGATE KILLING.

Two Men and Two Women Being Held at Huntsville.

Huntsville, Tex., Aug. 21.—Two men and two women are being held here by Sheriff Farris for questioning in connection with the killing of Raymond Martin, who was shot to death at Chisholm, Perry, this county, Tuesday night. The quartette held includes Mrs. Martin and Myrtle Mills, the latter being a visitor at the Martin home; Ed Billberry and Isaac Carroll, both of whom worked for Martin. All four maintain that Martin was shot by some one outside the house. The sheriff declares he believes the shot was fired from the head of the stairs inside the house.

Martin was killed with a load of buckshot, the entire load having entered his left shoulder. The shot ranged downward. Sheriff Farris found a double-barrel shotgun with one barrel discharged and some shells loaded with the same size shot as caused Martin's death. He did not say where he found this gun.

Martin's brother was killed a year ago by a brother of Miss Mills. The examining trial has been postponed indefinitely until the sheriff can investigate further.

Cotton.

New York, Aug. 21.—The cotton market was very active again today but more or less unsettled and after making new high ground for the movement eased off under private predictions of rain in the south before the end of the week and heavy realizing. The close was steady, net unchanged to 3 points higher.

Private cables stated that a small failure in Liverpool was without any particular influence, but that developments probably helped to unsettle the English market, which was several points lower than at the hour of the local opening. Prices here started at a decline of 4 points on the near months, which were influenced by the cables, while later positions were 2 to 5 points higher on over night buying orders, the execution of which carried the general level of the market above the closing figure of yesterday during the first few minutes. Many recent buyers appeared to be taking profits, however, and rumors that the spot basis in the western belt was slightly easier on yesterday's advance in futures, created some reactionary sentiment.

Prices quickly eased off after the call, but after showing a net loss of 6 or 7 points, firmed up again on the dry western belt for forecast and weather details showing higher temperatures in Texas, New Orleans, Memphis and Wall Street houses were big buyers on this advance, which sent prices 11 to 14 points net higher, with October contracts selling at 49 or 51 points above the low level of last week and within 6 points of the best price reached since they touched 19½c, the low level of last April.

Realizing became increasingly active later and there were reactions of 10 to 13 points in the later months on optimistic weather view of local map readers and further reports of an easier spot basis in the south.

New Orleans.

New Orleans, Aug. 21.—The cotton market at times today had a strong upward tendency, but on the whole was nervous with fluctuations both above and below the level of yesterday's close. The contending influences were the continued drought in the western belt and the profit taking of buyers of the last few days, who were satisfied with their gains. On bulges, bearishly inclined traders were disposed to put out fresh short lines. Selling was more pronounced than for several sessions past, but it was based on the technical position of the market rather than on any change in weather conditions. Bears said that the market was getting overbought. It was quite generally considered that the bulk of the short interest had been liquidated.

On the opening the tone was steady, prices 1 to 5 points up on the dry weather map. Cables were much lower than due, but no attention was paid to them. A small failure in the English market also failed to have an effect. After the call the market stood 5 to 7 points up, but the weather forecast predicting cloudiness for a large part of the western belt, stimulated selling, and the market took rather a sharp slump, landing 8 to 9 points under yesterday's final figures.

Many sensational reports of crop deterioration in Texas and Oklahoma came in during the morning and lifted prices again. The active months going 9 points over yesterday's close. In the afternoon the market rose and fell within narrow limits. The close was steady at a net decline of 6 to 8 points. Profit taking by longs worked against the market late in the day.

Grain.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Bulls were in control of both the wheat and corn pits today until near the close, when there was a general easing. Wheat ended at a net advance of ¾c, but corn was irregular, closing a half lower to ¾c higher; oats finished ¼c lower and provisions were 7½c lower to 2½c higher.

Corn claimed attention today to a greater extent than wheat, when the market approached in nervous activity the recent big bull campaign. The weather map seemed to be the dominating influence, dry hot conditions prevailing in the southwest and most of the remainder of the corn belt. Reports of beneficial rains in parts of Illinois did not check the upward tendency of prices and December again reached 70c. Leading longs added largely to their holdings, and the market remained firm and active for the greater part of the day. Weakness was manifest at the close on a number of profit-taking sales. Western Iowa reported corn selling there a cent higher than wheat.

Fears of frost in the Canadian northwest tonight was a prominent factor in the uplift of wheat. Strength of corn also helped the wheat bulls. The fact that the market had been slightly overbought added stimulation and shorts covered freely.

Oats became dull after a firm start and prices weakened with the easing of other grains.

Trade in provisions was not large, and price fluctuations were narrow. Selling of October ribs by a leading house was the chief feature of the market.

Stocks.

New York, Aug. 21.—Definite news concerning the affairs in which Wall Street is particularly interested just now was lacking today and the uncertain movements of stocks reflected this lack. One of the few factors was renewed selling here on a moderate scale for foreign account, and the manner in which the list sagged under these offerings suggested that traders saw no reason for supporting prices.

The continued uncertainty over the Mexican situation was perhaps the chief restraining factor. The reduction of $2 a ton in steel billets attracted attention, the course of the market for billets being considered one of the best indications of prevailing conditions in the steel trade in general. United States Steel was sold persistently and its heaviness influenced the entire list. C and O rose a point after the announcement of reduction in the annual rate from 5 to 4 per cent. The heavy losses which the company sustained in the spring from the export of the change which had been generally expected and fully discounted.

The bond market showed a reactionary tendency. Total sales, par value $915,000. United States bonds unchanged on call.

Livestock.

Fort Worth, Aug. 21.—Receipts fell off considerably Thursday, no more than 2,200 cattle and 1,000 calves arriving, and the shortening of the supply gave the market an opportunity to get a breathing spell. Beeves ranged from $5.50 to $6.40, stocker stuff $4.75 to $5.75. Butcher cows and heifers sold steady with the Wednesday decline and bulls were easy, the former going at a range of $4.00 to $5.25, with the latter making $4.00 to $5.25. Calves fully steady and active, with vealers making $8.25 and $8.50 and the bulk nothing $8.50 to $9.00.

Among the Wholesalers.

There was a very fair volume of business in evidence yesterday, and an easy feeling prevailed; but there did not seem to be much of a desire to push sales too strenuously.

Indeed, there is some conservatism manifest, which takes the form of a desire to wait on weather conditions and a more definite insight of the probable crop yield.

True, cotton right now is coming in a little faster than last year. But this fact is fully understood and the reason therefor; and this in itself suggests prudence.

But prudence and pessimism are not necessarily contingent upon each other and there is a good feeling prevalent among business men generally.

With produce dealers matters continued to run smoothly. Not one of them seems to have any complaint to make; except, perhaps, that they are a little overworked of late supplying a demand that was never greater.

Those yellow pumpkin yams promised last year are here now, and they stay here; retailers are taking them as fast as they come in. From now on they will become more plentiful. Bananas are considerably more plentiful and a slight drop in price is likely to occur.

One or two concerns that have been compelled to increase their clerical forces state they have had considerable difficulty in doing so; that it is hard to find suitable material that is not already employed. This would seem to indicate a healthy condition for Waco.

It is hard to say where all the big watermelons are coming from, but they are still coming in just the same, and it is claimed they are all raised inside McLennan county, too.

Among the out-of-town merchants visiting the various wholesale concerns of the city yesterday may be mentioned: C. H. Cox & Co.—T. H. Luckey of Mount Calm; Waco Drug Co.—Dr. M. M. Gough of Flat; Taylor-Hanna-James Co.—S. B. Lee of Pendelo and Johnson Bros. of Oakley.

Behrens Drug Co.—N. Gusemann of Levi and Dr. R. H. Anderson of Hewitt.

EATING SHOULD BE IN PEACE.

Never Disturb a Man When He is at His Meals.

(New York Press.)

Never disturb a man when he is eating. Not only does it irritate him, but it actually interrupts his digestion. No man who knows anything about dogs will ever disturb an animal at his meal. To call away a dog when he is gnawing a bone is cruel as well as dangerous. A cat that is worrying a mouse will scratch and bite if interrupted.

Eating is not only a physiological process, but is a psychological experience as well. It is even more so in human beings than in animals. To disturb a dog at a meal is to disturb his peace of mind. A cat that is worrying a mouse will scratch and bite if interrupted.

Eating is not only a physiological process, but is a psychological experience as well. It is even more so in human beings than in animals. To disturb a dog at a meal is to disturb his peace of mind. A cat that is worrying a mouse will scratch and bite if interrupted.

The odor and flavor of good food give pleasure to the eater. They are carried by the nerves of smell and taste to the brain, which sends through the spinal cord and the sympathetic nervous system a message to the stomach, intestines, pancreas and all the other organs that have a share in digestion, commanding them to prepare for the reception of honored guests. Such a message is unconscious but real. Whatever distracts the mind disagreeably from the food acts as an inhibition against such automatic messages, and the food reaches an unprepared stomach—that is to say, a stomach that has not enough of the juices that are necessary to digest the food.

Nothing is a better accompaniment to a meal than lively, cheerful conversation. But he who introduces at the table an unpleasant topic or starts an argument that may arouse animosity or be pursued too earnestly it not fit company for man or beast. He is impairing the digestion of every one present.

An employer who interrupts his assistants in their lunch hour, a man who calls another up on the phone at the restaurant where he is dining, to talk to him on important business, is committing an unsocial act, an act that should be a misdemeanor under our laws. For digestion is the most important of all functions of the human body, and anything that tends to disturb it, as every interruption does, is a serious offense against health, comparable with deliberately exposing a man to infection by diphtheria or tuberculosis.

Muscle, if so subdued as not to interfere with ordinary conversation, is a pleasant accompaniment to a meal, but music so loud that diners have to shout to each other or keep silent, music that is blatant or discordant, is a parent of indigestion. The epicure seeks a place as far from the music as possible. The epicure loves to enjoy his meals because he loves to enjoy perfect digestion and its corollary, perfect health.

AD CLUB HEARS TWO GOOD PAPERS

CARLOCK TELLS HOW TO PRESENT DEPARTMENT STORE FEATURES TO THE PUBLIC.

KUYKENDALL TALKS ELECTRICITY

How It Can Be Used to Advantage. New Members Voted In—Question Box Is Opened.

"Department Store Advertising" and "Advertising with Electricity" were the subjects of two highly interesting and instructive papers read before the Waco Ad club at its regular semi-monthly meeting last evening. The first paper was read by M. Pomeroy Carlock, a prominent department store advertising manager, while J. E. Kuykendall, electric supply advertiser, read the second paper. Both were interesting in that they dealt with the latest uses and methods of publicity.

The meeting was called to order promptly at 6:30 in the rooms of the Young Men's Business League by Vice President J. B. Hoffman, who presided in the absence of W. J. Mitchell. A prepared plate lunch was served immediately the meeting was called to order, which served to set the members in the most pleasant state of mind. This was supplemented with a generous supply of soft drinks, and for about thirty minutes the room was a scene of feasting.

The business of the meeting was then called for by the president, and following the regular routine the applications for membership of ten local business men were received and favorably passed by the members. An expression of appreciation was then voted for the soft drinks served with the lunch.

Following the regular business of the meeting M. P. Carlock, advertising manager for the Goldstein-Miguel company, was called upon to read a paper which he had been requested to prepare. Mr. Carlock received much attention while he discussed the various successful methods of advertising for department stores, which subject he had well in hand. Following is a copy of the paper:

Mr. President and Gentlemen: Department store advertising is a very broad subject and should be divided into separate parts. We have so many lines requiring different methods that it will be impossible to take up only the general rules and basic principles in this paper.

Such subjects as special sales and mail order advertising in addition to specific rules to be used in advertising the various lines must necessarily be taken up at some future time.

While I will endeavor to take up my subject in a general way I ask the forgiveness of other competent advertisers present.

The word "advertising" comes from an old Greek term which means "to call attention to." So everything which calls attention to the department store lines may properly be classed as advertising.

Advertising is one of the most powerful words in the modern business vocabulary. It is to a store like steam to an engine—the power that makes things go. Ideas are the foundations of ad building and the stronger the ideas the better the advertising. Words are but the vehicles of ideas and likewise type the vehicles of words.

So make your words short, plain and simple. The briefest sentence is always the most forceful. As type is the vehicle of words it should be distinctive, clear and striking. Headlines and sub-heads should be bold enough to catch the eye easily and hold it.

Department store advertising introductions are generally set in 12 to 18 point type while the body matter or solid matter is usually set in 10 point. Prices should always be large enough to stand out bold and clear from the solid matter.

Most progressive department stores in America own their display type, which makes their ads distinctive and easy to recognize. Borders are considered by most ad writers as a finishing touch in some of the relation of illustrations to the text.

Illustrations give your ad life and make them more attractive, and especially are they beneficial when they honestly picture the merchandise advertised.

The best advertising mediums for most retail lines are newspapers, circulars, catalogues, multi-graph letters and show windows. Ad writers generally consider the newspapers by far the best and most economical medium for results.

Now we come to the merchandise and the audience. After becoming familiar with the class of merchandise a store handles the advertiser must study his readers. He must know the number, quality and kind of circulation every newspaper has to offer. Unless he knows these facts he cannot do his work scientifically and with best results.

I firmly believe that one-half the failures of advertising "copy" to get proper results could be traced to the fact that the advertiser failed to study his audience. You would not advertise furs in the tropics. Neither would you try to sell furs in the Arctic Circle.

It pays to study your readers. If they live in the rural districts, advertise goods and prices that will appeal to them. If your readers belong to the upper strata of the city, then you will have to reckon with this fact. I emphasize that if you want results you must hit the mark. Now I hold that a good department store ad or any other for that matter must do at least three things if it is to be successful.

First—it must attract the attention of the reader.

Second—it must be constructed and worded to cause the reader to read what you have to say and create a desire for the goods advertised.

Third—it must open the purse.

Must Open the Purse. And gentlemen the last is the most important point of all. Unless you can open the purse your ad is a failure. When you write your ad keep these points in mind. Put yourself in your readers' place—tell them the things you would want to know in clear, brief terms. And now comes the champion purse-opener of the world—the price. Price governs business, everywhere. The cry all over the land is "How much?" When you go to buy anything it is your first question. When someone tries to sell you something your first question is "How much?" So don't forget the price. It is the magic word in retail advertising.

But price is not everything. It must be backed up by quality, service and truth. Truth is undoubtedly revolutionizing advertising methods.

Must Not Exaggerate. The time of exaggeration and misrepresentation is past, thanks to the progressive advertising man of America. Formerly retail stores would exaggerate without one point of reason for it except to "bunco" the people. For instance, only a few years ago a merchant would buy ten dozen towels made to retail at 25 cents each from an American mill. He would advertise these towels as 100 dozen imported towels at exceptional 50 cent values at a special figure to help out his customers at 25 cents each, figure 4 cents higher than they were made to sell for.

Today any modern store would take the same shipment of towels and advertise them as ten dozen towels in regular value at 25 cents each, with an inducement at each 10 cents, 15 cents or 19 cents, according to the ideas of the department manager and how hard he was pulling for business.

There would be no exaggeration and the department would stand on actual money loss on the towels in order to increase the total business of his department and the business in other parts of the store.

And in summing up the total sales of the day the small loss on towels would be forgotten. The modern merchant takes a loss gracefully on items for special sale or clearance in order to fill his store with eager shoppers and make a total greater profit. Many good advertisers and merchants who do not understand these methods of handling "loss leaders" think the advertiser has misrepresented when he features some unusual price reduction but this is far from the facts.

Here in Waco as in other cities of the country window displays and other lines are advertised at half price and even less which seems unbelievable to one not acquainted with modern retail advertising methods, but in many cases these goods are sold at an actual loss and are truthfully described and the values honestly stated. The loss in dollars and cents is a small item when I tell you that the sales in a large store are very often doubled when such leaders are on sale.

Eliminate Superlatives. The public is getting tired of superlatives and progressive advertisers are trying to eliminate such words as "best," "finest," "greatest" and other questionable words and get down to the plain simple language having the ring of truth. I will read you as an illustration the introduction of an ad of the Parquet Department Store, Quebec, Canada. This introduction to a big clearance sale ad is my idea of honest advertising and the results were remarkable. I am told that the sale was the most successful in the history of the store. Note closely how this reads:

"We Do Not Recommend These Goods; If We Could They Would Not Be Here Now."

"Everything described below has been in stock for more than one year, with the exception of a few lines of staples. We do not pretend that they are the latest and most fashionable goods that money can buy. Some of the lines which are subject to the whims of fashion are decidedly out of style. The only reason these are here now is because no one wanted them. In some cases the materials are off color and the patterns bad. They occupy valuable space which is needed at once for the display of new goods. They may not appeal to you—on the other hand, the prices are low enough to make every item on this page a 'bargain' as the word is generally understood."

This was a remarkably truthful statement and delivered the goods. Ten years ago the writer would have lost his position for such work. Today he is simply considered progressive.

In making up large department store ads the writer must remember that the prime object is to sell goods and gain prestige and the first great point in making up an ad is to see that the principal departments and items are properly displayed to advantage. Make your ads striking as well as pleasing.

Art should be sacrificed to business and vice versa when necessary to sell goods.

Advertiser Like an Editor. A department store advertiser is like an editor of a large newspaper with the numerous buyers and department managers corresponding to reporters continually bringing fresh store news to be whipped into shape for publication. It takes diplomacy, tact and patience to work with all these heads and keep the wheels of business running smoothly.

Many an enthusiastic advertiser with a brilliant future has been unduly hampered and discouraged by his employers who interfere with his work in the most unnecessary manner. Many times this is unintentional but every advertiser should have control of his department and be allowed to get out his work in his own original and characteristic way. The same old story that "too many cooks spoil the broth" holds good here. So every member of a firm should recognize a capable advertiser's rights and refrain from those things which dampen the enthusiasm. Remember there is more than one way to skin a cat. The results are what count and few specialists gain the same results the same way.

When a department becomes sick it is generally up to the advertiser to locate a cure, but before this can be done a diagnosis is necessary. In most cases a sick department is due to one or more of the following causes: Incapable manager, poor advertising, poor location, poor methods of display, inefficient salespeople, tardy deliveries, bad reputation, insufficient capital and general lax of good business methods. Most of these ills can be cured by good constant advertising backed by quality, service, truth and proper prices.

Window displays should match up with the ads as closely as possible. For this reason in most large stores the window display department is under the direct control of the advertising manager.

Special goods advertised for sale on certain days should be displayed 24 to 72 hours before the sale begins, so the special prices and actual values clearly shown.

Head Lines Are Bids. Now back to the basic principles of department advertising. Head lines are the first bids for business. Put your best efforts into them. If the head line is really good, it is certain in most cases and results are certain. After your head line has caught the eye then comes the next business clincher, "quality." No word in the vocabulary of business is more pregnant with significance than the word "quality." You may apply it to goods, service, or to ability, but this fact is universally the same—no extravagant assertion of present advantage, no false logic of economy of price can long make headway against downrightness in merchandise.

Next comes price. When you have attracted the attention of the reader and described your goods honestly state the price and sign your name. You can do no more. Price is the real 25 cents value as a special inducement at each 10 cents, 15 cents or 19 cents, according to the ideas of the department manager and how hard he was pulling for business.

Service is the modern key to greater business. The large stores of America give special attention to it as a factor in business as never before. Poor service or an atmosphere of distrust will defeat any advertising and most offers of quality. You must do your work a little better than your competitor. A business radiates personality the same as an individual. It seizes you as you enter the door, that indescribable something which grips the customer and causes him to decide within himself and say "I want to buy here."

In closing I would say from ten years department store advertising experience that price, quality, truth and service are the four great essentials to successful retail advertising. I thank you.

Following the reading of the above paper J. E. Kuykendall was called to the floor by the chairman and requested to read a paper on "Advertising with Electricity." Having made a study of the various commercial uses of electricity for several years, and at present being advertising manager of the Waco Electric Supply company, Mr. Kuykendall responded ably, and read an instructive paper on modern advertising, of which the following is a copy:

The good country is always just over the hill.

When Mr. Harmon called me over the telephone and told me I was to write something about advertising with electricity and read it here tonight, well, naturally I thought there was nothing so difficult to write about as advertising with electricity. So it is we always think that the subject we are asked to discuss is the very hardest one that could be thought of; hence the remark, the good country is just over the hill.

Now, if I were on the staff of some newspaper I could tell you how many people I could reach if you would place your ad with me. I would have a sworn statement as to circulation, and I would tell you about the advantages of my paper, and just for your information, the disadvantages of the other fellow's medium.

But if I should place an electric sign across Austin street it would be pretty hard to estimate how many would read that sign.

As to how to advertise with electricity there are many ways. We all know that the best way to advertise an article is to "show the goods," and we are very careful to have our show-windows full, and have the goods placed in them in such a manner as to best display them. Now, if you would have your show-windows bring the very best results you must have them well lighted. For through the day men do not have time to stop and study your display and see just what you have, but at night they come down town just for a stroll, they are in a hurry; possibly have their wives with them, and naturally they want to stop at the windows to see all the new styles that are on display.

I believe I am right when I say there are more people who see what you have in your windows at night than in daytime, and tonight when you leave here, notice the people on the bright side of the street and the ones on the dark side, and notice how many stop and look at the well-lighted windows and the few that stop at the poorly lighted windows.

If the business men on Austin street would put the new Mazda lamps in their electric signs and light their windows properly we would not be worrying about "the great white way," we would have one, and when you have a well lighted street you will have the promenade on that street.

Some will say when you ask them why they don't light their windows and keep their store open at night and do not need the front lighted. You may as well say I don't need to advertise in the papers for the customers are not in my store when they read the ad.

Make your place bright and when people come shopping they will remember where that well lighted window was.

Then there is the billboard and the painted barn. If they were well lighted they would attract the attention of passengers going through the town at night as well as of the residents of the town.

"Because of their efficiency as business getters electric signs are becoming more popular every day, and because of the new and wonderful improvements in lamps, signs are busier, brighter and better than ever."

People are like bugs—a bright light will attract them.

The special features of the program and the question box was then opened. Some of the questions submitted provoked much argument and the expression of varying opinions. Nearly all the members in attendance, about fifty, took part in the discussions of the queries submitted.

PROGRAM IS MADE FOR FIELD DAY

NAVIGATORS WILL CONTEST IN NUMEROUS EVENTS SEPTEMBER 8.

RUNNING, HITTING, THROWING

Committee Met Yesterday Afternoon and Prepared Tentative List of Events for Benefit.

The committee appointed to prepare a program for the Navigators' field day met yesterday afternoon, those present being Steve Jones, W. A. Heit and Ralph Glaze.

The program will be carried out on a field day to be held at a benefit for the Waco ball team on the day after the regular season closes, September 8. The events planned will be submitted to the club management, subject to their approval, but the chances are that they will be about as follows:

Fifty-yard dash, 100-yard dash, Circling the bases for time record, Bunting or bunts for time record, Throwing for accuracy.

Throwing for distance, "Fungo" hitting for distance.

These are practically the same events that were staged at the Cincinnati Nationals' field day last year.

In the throwing contests, the pitchers will contest in separate events from the rest of the team. The twirlers will be required to shoot at a hole in a box about the size of home plate.

It is possible that a ball game will be played, but more than likely the other events will prove of greater interest, and will be arranged so as to take up the whole afternoon.

IN THE LOCAL COURTS

The clemency of probation was exercised yesterday in the case of Robert Johnson of Mart, who was tried before Probate Judge Denton on a charge of burglary. The accused is a youth under the age of 17, the maximum probation age, and was arrested for a burglary committed at Mart. The case was transferred here to the jurisdiction of the local probate judge, and the lad given trial yesterday afternoon.

His father appeared in court and promised to guarantee the future good behavior of the boy, and made an appeal for clemency for his son. After due consideration Judge Denton decided to release the boy, holding the father responsible for the appearance of the son any time it was demanded by the court.

EQUALIZATION IS DELAYED

Adoption of a New System Retards the Progress of the Board.

Because of the introduction of the Somers system of property valuation and the additional burden of work that has fallen on the city tax collector and assessor's office, the board of equalization will not meet until September 3. Last year the board met for the last time on August 1, and the introduction of the new system will delay the board until the latter part of next month before the board will be able to meet from all the citizens who wish to give reasons why their property valuations should be changed.

The opinion is expressed by the tax officials that the board will receive decidedly fewer complaints under the new system. While its introduction has in general raised the former assessment values it seems to give far more satisfaction to the average taxpayer because of its equality. Heretofore the board considered each case separately where there was dissatisfaction, but under the new system if the board is convinced that one citizen's assessment is too much it will necessitate a change in the unit value and this affects the entire scale of assessable values.

Tax Assessor and Collector R. L. Stridling said yesterday that much more property has been rendered voluntary since the introduction of the Somers system than had ever been under the previous system. This is taken as indication that the new system is giving satisfaction.

Collection of taxes is supposed to begin by October 1, but because the roll cannot be made out until the acceptance of the board of equalization the tax office will be hard-pressed to get the roll ready for the collection. The office is at present rushing the tabulation of the Somers results and balancing the abstracts preparatory to the meeting of the board. The board of equalization is composed of C. M. Hubby, S. H. Clayton and E. W. Marshall.

City Tax Payers. I have mailed post cards to every property owner in the city, asking them to call at city hall and give in their assessment for 1913. Many have responded, many have not. I ask again those who have not, to call at once, else your property will be assessed at the figures fixed by the appraisers. Have you bought any property on which you will pay taxes this year? If so, call and assess it. If you have sold any property on which you will not pay taxes for 1913, call and have same taken from your assessment. These matters are of importance to you and your prompt attention is respectfully asked.

Artesian Water Now Supplied to Waco

Over 500,000 gallons of artesian water per day with a temperature of about 106 degrees Fahrenheit was turned into the city mains yesterday when the flow from the well on Bell's Hill was connected with the city's network of mains.

The attempt to secure hot water in Waco equal to that in Marlin and other hot water resorts has been one of the most interesting projects of the past year. While the original hope of attaining water of color and curative properties has not yet been realized, the supply of water that the city will derive from the well is of great value.

On account of the pressure, difficulty has been experienced in confining the water in the casing, but this will soon be remedied, said Samuel J. Quay, superintendent of the waterworks. The pressure is strong enough to counteract the flow from the city mains.

President Aide Boy Scouts. Washington, Aug. 21.—Probably the eight proudest boys in the United States today are to be found in the local organization of Boy Scouts, for they will go down to posterity in the "movies" scouting with President Wilson in the white house grounds. The film in which they appear is to be 8,000 feet long, the longest yet made with the exception of one production. The moving pictures, which are intended to advance the Boy Scout movement, were taken yesterday. The president will be shown welcoming the boys and shaking hands with them after which he will be depicted watching and directing the youngsters in some of their scout work.

In carrying out the idea of depicting the Boy Scout movement the picture operators this week will visit Camp Archibald Butt, near the capital, where Boy Scouts are spending the summer and will take moving pictures of scenes in their camp life.

FOR A SANITARIUM

HIRSHFIELD WANTS TO PUT ORIGINAL CAPITAL IN BUILDING.

Suggests That Hot Well Development Company Use Water From Bell's Hill Flow.

Secretary Hirschfield of the Hot Well Development company, has received a check from the American Well Construction company for $1,500, which fulfills the compromise proposition made by the construction company when it abandoned work on the Bell's Hill well. As soon as the city pays the $400 which it agreed to allow the hot well company, the company will be in possession of the full amount of $4,500 with which it began operations.

Although some of the directors and shareholders seem to have lost interest in the matter and in favor of dissolving and turning each shareholder his money back, Mr. Hirschfield and others are in favor of investing the capital in hand in a bath house for the utilization of the hot flow on Bell's Hill.

"The medicinal value of the Bell's Hill water has already been proved," said Mr. Hirschfield yesterday. "There is no doubt that it will produce effects every bit as beneficial as the Marlin waters. What we want is a bath house of substantial build that will be an attraction for health seekers all the year round."

"Such a bath house," said Mr. Hirschfield, "could be erected for $15,000. At that price we could obtain an all-stone structure which would be proof against the deteriorating effects of hot water and steam. If located in close proximity to the business center it would be of untold value. It is hard to calculate how much Marlin profits by her baths. Waco has the same possibilities open. What we want to do is to keep pegging away on the same line we started. If we can put through the bath house plan we will have given W
